Army Of Hunters Ready To Take To Woods In Early Hours Thursday

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—Pennsylvania's army of nimrods takes to the woods and fields at dawn tomorrow for the opening of the small game season.

Estimates today were that more than a million hunters are equipped with licenses. Gunners seeking rabbits and squirrels can hunt any day during November except Sunday. Bird hunters, however, will be required to watch the calendar this year due to the adoption of a staggered season for the conservation of the feathered quarry.

Both the daily and season limits for rabbits have been cut this season as a conservation measure, but it is estimated that even with the limit four a day and 24 a season the kill will exceed 2,000,000.

Squirrels also will attract hunters during the month. They can be shot any weekday in November. The limit is six a day and 20 a season.

Turkeys Scarce.
The staggered season on game birds permits hunting on several days each week. The dates are: November 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 10, 12, 14, 17, 19, 21, 24, 26, 28, 29, and 30.

Popular among the game birds on the staggered season list are ring-necked pheasants, grouse, quail and wild turkeys. Two male pheasants for one day's hunting are permitted each hunter and the bag limit for the season is six. The same daily limit obtains for grouse but the season maximum is 12. Half a dozen quail per day can be killed, and 24 a season.

The scarcity of wild turkeys has forced a limit of one per season to each hunter. In 19 counties no turkey hunting at all is permissible this year.

Hunger Marchers Routed By Police

Eleven In Albany Hospitals—Clash With Police Occurs

(International News Service)
ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Albany was virtually an armed camp today following the bloody battle between 200 bedraggled "hunger marchers" and 75 policemen.

Eleven of the hunger marchers were in the hospital, with some possible fractured skulls, while police, armed with riot guns, patrolled the business section of the city and guarded the state capitol.

About 100 of the marchers, who fled before the fleeing nightstick of local police, today were encamped on the hills outside of Rensselaer, just across the Hudson river from Albany. Their trucks, in which they came from New York and down state, had been seized by police.

Between 30 and 50 men and women marchers, who arrived by truck from the central and western part of the state an hour after the battle, were held in a police station. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

The hunger marchers were to open a two-day meeting for the purpose of presenting their demands for relief to Governor Herbert H. Lehman and members of the legislature.

Holding Eight In Dillinger Escape Probe

Six Men And Two Women Are Quizzed By Indiana Officers

CHARGE $20,000 IS INVOLVED IN CASE

Seek Evidence Linking Three As Accomplices In Bandit's Escape

(International News Service)
MONTICELLO, Ind., Oct. 31.—From the eight persons held incommunicado under heavy guard here Deputy Attorney General J. Edward Barce today sought evidence directly linking three persons with the "wooden gun" escape of John Dillinger from the county jail at Crown Point.

Questioning of the six men and two women in custody was expected to yield information that would bring the arrest of "at least three persons" as accomplices in the Dillinger escape plot last March 3, Barce declared.

Charge $20,000 Involved.
The escape plot, state officials charge, was perfected in a Lake County, Ind., tavern where an asserted $18,000 was paid for a set of plans of the jail. Some $20,000 changed hands before the deal was completed, according to charges made by the investigators.

Policemen in plain clothes were guarding the Hotel Forbis here where the prisoners were being grilled. All were seized early yesterday in secret raids at Crown Point. Barce insisted the prisoners were merely "witnesses."

The arrests, made with the apparent sanction of Gov. Paul V. McNutt and his Democratic administration, stirred the Republican-Democratic political campaign to new heights of frenzy. Prosecutors of Lake County said the arrests, made without warrants, constituted kidnapping under the law. Judge William J. Murray of the Lake County criminal court summoned a grand jury investigation of the seizures.

Those In Custody.
The grand jury adjourned without taking action after hearing several witnesses.

Those held are Lew Baker, jailer at the Crown Point jail; Ernest Blunk, Lake County fingerprint expert tried and acquitted on charges of assisting in the Dillinger escape; Terry Garland and his wife, operators of a Crown Point restaurant; Mrs. Boettcher, relative of the Garlands; Harvey Keiser, tavern owner, and Archibald Dunn and his son, Denzie Dunn, bartenders employed by Keiser.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—While 8,000 Republican followers gathered to hear United States Senator David A. Reed denounce once more the "New Deal" policies of the national administration and Attorney General William A. Schnader deny he is "in any conspiracy with Governor Phibbs," Mayor William M. McNair's payroll meeting here today voted to support Schnader by a two to one vote.

Largest Crowd.
Climaxing the campaign, the two "key" Republican candidates brought out one of the largest gatherings of the race.

Reed was given an ovation when he challenged Joseph P. Guifrey to "come out and state whether he promises slavish acceptance to every order of the White House or whether he'll think for himself." He then launched an attack on almost every phase of the administration's national recovery policies, decrying the processing taxes, TVA, debasement of the currency, and other points.

Schnader centered his talk on state problems.

Other prominent Republicans, including Senator Harry B. Scott, nominee for lieutenant-governor, Will B. Hadeney, Philadelphia county treasurer who bolted the Democratic party, and others, spoke.

Hurry Call For Hunting Licenses

Demand for hunting licenses has been so great during the past week that County Treasurer William O. Pitts had to telephone to Harrisburg this morning for more tags. Chicago Fair To Be Closed Today

Urge Exposition Be Made Annual Affair, Have Had 16,000,000 Visitors

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—A Century of Progress Exposition swings to a grand finale tonight with a blare of pageantry and celebration saluting its two seasons of success in a period of economic inertia.

When the busy funnishes are closed for the last time at midnight tonight the last of some 40-million of visitors will have entered the World's Fair grounds since the grand opening 18 months ago.

Exposition officials were prepared to handle a crowd of 300,000 sightseers today and tonight. The sixteen millionth visitor for 1934 will enter the grounds today.

A resolution from the Chicago real estate board meanwhile was presented to Mayor Edward Kelly urging that the exposition be retained as an annual trade fair patterned after similar expositions held at Toronto and at Leipzig, Germany.

Estimates placed at $700,000,000 the money spent here by the nearly 40,000,000 visitors to the World's Fair in the course of its two seasons.

Hope To Settle Store Trouble

Seven-Point Peace Program For A. And P. Store Controversy In Cleveland

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31.—Bearing a seven-point peace program between the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. and the Cleveland labor unions, Thomas S. Farrell and other labor leaders returned here today with the first definite hope that the 300 Atlantic & Pacific stores in greater Cleveland would reopen.

The national labor relations board handed out the peace proposal at Washington at 1 o'clock this morning after an all-afternoon, all-night session with representatives of the company and the Cleveland labor unions.

While Farrell and the other labor leaders returned here to submit the program to the Cleveland unions, John A. Harford, president of the A. & P. Co., went to New York to submit the plan to the company's board.

If both sides accept the agreement, the 300 closed A. & P. stores in greater Cleveland will reopen, the unions and the employer will avoid coercion, the company and the unions will deal in collective bargaining, and an arbiter will decide the points then in issue.

The union has asked for a closed shop specification, but that item was not included in the bargain.

Annual Hallowe'en Celebration Takes Place On South Side Tonight

IVOR DAVIS WILL ACT AS MARSHAL

Parade Will Move Over South Side District Streets At 8 P. M.

This is South Side night, tonight, when the Slabtown boys and girls and men and women and their friends from every part of the county gather for the annual Hallowe'en celebration. It is the one night in the year when the South Side is jammed to suffocation with thousands of Hallowe'eners out for a time and sure of getting it.

It isn't confined to the South Side, any more than the Atlantic ocean is confined to the boardwalk at Atlantic City or the aurora borealis is confined to Aurora, Ill. It's for everybody who is still perpendicular and there's always room for another hundred or more. Each year the prize list shows winners from the North Hill, from the Seventh Ward, from Ellwood City and points west.

Mammoth Parade.
The parade tonight should be the capstone of every parade they ever held down in the South Side. It will be divided into four divisions, with a band heading each division. Red fire and horns, numbers of all sizes and ages, all of them trooping along in a blarney hodgepodge following the old Spanish custom of parading—or was it a French custom?

The marshals, the aides and the various chairmen will meet at seven o'clock in the office of Alderman Cooper for the final instructions. In the meantime between seven and 7:55 the mummies will gather on Hamilton street, and promptly at eight o'clock Ivor V. Davis, the grand marshal, will lead (Continued On Page Two)

Confessions May Not Be Admitted In Case Evidence

Claim Police Used "Third Degree" To Obtain Confession From Plotters

(International News Service)
WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 31.—Whether the alleged confessions of Thurman P. Bowen and Harry Thornton should be admitted as evidence at their trial on charges of conspiracy to kidnap Mrs. W. L. Harris, tobacco heiress, was the question before the court here today.

In arguments yesterday, Defense Counsel Benjamin Rosenbloom, protested their admission on the grounds the confessions were obtained by police "third degree" methods.

Bowen and Thornton, both 31, are accused of plotting to kidnap Mrs. Harris, the former Betty Bloch, with intent to hold the 26-year-old newly-wed for $50,000 ransom.

Ah, me, they can't all win I know, and someone has to lose, and friends will lose their next week's pay, their overcoat and shoes, and some will win, they always do, and they can shout, hooray, when all the votes are counted then, it's forty-one today.

Evidently there are Halloween gangs in operation on the outskirts of the city. A motorist coming into the city early this morning reported that there were six or seven porch swings hanging on the large billboard on the Wilmington road, just outside the city limits.

If all the members (there are 750) and all the club and class members of the local Y. W. C. In Case EvidenceClaim Police Used "Third Degree" To Obtain Confession From Plotters

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 31.—
Whether the alleged confessions of Thurman F. Bowen and Harry Thornton should be admitted as evidence at their trial on charges of conspiracy to kidnap Mrs. W. L.
Harris, tobacco heiress, was the question before the court here today.In arguments yesterday Defense Counsel Benjamin Rosenbloom protested their admission on the grounds the confessions were obtained by police "third degree" methods.
Bowen and Thornton, both 31, are accused of plotting to kidnap Mrs.
Harris, the former Betty Bloch, with intent to hold the 26-year-old newly-wed for $50,000 ransom.

The storm is just around the bend, the clouds are hanging low; a few more fays of argument and then we're apt to know, just how much good the speeches did, the letters and the rest, for Tuesday next is when it breaks, the voters take the test. And with a rush the storm will break, the voting storm I mean, and just who wins and who gets left on Wednesday will be seen. Ah, me, they can't all win I know, and someone has to lose, and friends will lose their next week's pay, their overcoat and shoes, and some will win, they always do, and they can shout, hooray, when all the votes are counted then, it's forty-one today.

Administration Studying Plans

Low-Cost Housing Program Will Be Presented To Congress

TEN BILLIONS MAY BE TOTAL OF FUND

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A $10,000,000,000 public works program, financed over a long period of years at a low interest rate, may become a reality in the 74th congress.

Such a program, among many other suggestions, is now under study by administration officials. In response to a presidential mandate, they are seeking ways and means of either eliminating outright cash doles entirely, or reducing them to the absolute minimum.

Is Best Means
A large scale program, such as is now being explored, impresses most of Mr. Roosevelt's advisers as offering the best means to accomplish this end. In such a program would be included low-cost housing construction and slum clearance projects such as the president recently stated would be proposed to congress; enlargement of the sub-sistence homestead areas, rural electrification development, and lesser projects which would fit into the general picture.

All that responsible administration officials would say today was that this ambitious program was under consideration. It was emphasized no decisions have been reached, although Mr. Roosevelt already has stated that low-cost housing will definitely be one of his proposals to congress.

The federal government also is getting ready to tighten up on the direct federal relief.

Must Provide Share
States will shortly be asked to contribute a greater share toward the national relief support, Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator said today.

All states will be asked to furnish a minimum of 40 percent of their relief cost, Hopkins said, and some will be expected to contribute as much as two-thirds.

Those states which will be expected to meet the minimum of 40 percent, he indicated, will include, among others, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, California and Virginia.

Other states, not named by the relief head, will be called on for 50 percent of their state unemployment virtually carried by the federal government, which in the majority of cases has averaged payment of 60 percent of their unemployment relief load.

dent Roosevelt. His words failed to bring applause.

Schnader's discussion centered about "home rule" and he asserted President Roosevelt was not an issue in the campaign.

Overjoyed by the reception given him by McNair's city payrollers, Schnader went before the Republican rally with a vigorous denial that he is "in any conspiracy with Governor Pinchot to unseat Reed after he is elected."

"If anyone tries to deny Dave Reed his senatorial seat after he is elected, I'll fight as hard as I can with both fists to help him sustain his right to it," the gubernatorial nominee declared.

Reed ran the gauntlet of criticism of the national administration's policies. He said its inflation policy works the hardest "on the farmer and the factory worker" and then made a startling revelation when he uttered:

Not Fighting Roosevelt
"I'm not fighting Roosevelt. I'm fighting the unsound policies the professors are reading into his administration."

The senior senator assailed broken pledges and then charged the hydro-electric program in the Tennessee valley would "displace 62 million tons of coal every year and throw 115,000 coal miners out of a job." He predicted the St. Lawrence waterway pact would deflect railway shipments from Pennsylvania and the Port of Philadelphia and "throw hundreds of thousands of men out of employment."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot who has swept through the state assailing Democrats comes to McKeesport tonight. Because of his recent assertion that "you ain't heard nothing yet," political observers expect to see him cut loose once again against the Democratic standard-bearer he has so vigorously denounced.

Damages Claimed For Auto Accident

Leonard K. Smith Of This City Wants $2500 From H. E. Blackmar Of New Jersey

Leonard K. Smith of this city has filed a suit at the probate court's office against Harry E. Blackmar of Hopewell, N. J., in which he asks for $2500 damages as the result of an auto accident on the New Castle-Harlanburg road.

Smith claims that on June 3, 1934, Blackmar was driving west on the Harlanburg road, and was at a curve near the McCracken farm about five miles from this city, when he attempted to pass a truck that was ahead of him.

Smith, with James Cowmeadow as a passenger on his motorcycle, was going east, and when Blackmar turned out to pass the truck he crashed into the Smith motorcycle. The motorcycle was completely wrecked and Smith was painfully injured. Smith claims that Blackmar was driving at a high and dangerous rate of speed and that the accident was due to his carelessness in trying to pass the truck on a curve.

Judge Releases Non-Taxpayer In Greensburg Court

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—Committed to jail a week ago for his alleged non-payment of 1929 townships taxes, John Mitchell, 47, an unemployed, Hempfield township resident, was ordered released immediately by Judge William T. Dom at the conclusion of a habeas corpus hearing today.

The tax bill for which Mitchell was sent to the county jail amounted to $12.30, plus court costs of $9. The action was brought against him by former tax collector Franklin M. Harrold, of Hempfield township. Judge Dom pointed out that Mitchell should not have been committed to jail until a levy on his personal property had been made or until investigation by proper authorities established that he was deliberately trying to avoid payment of the taxes.

witness the classic, including thousands who had bought sweepstakes tickets in this country.

Twenty-five of the sweepstakes tickets on Wychwood Abbott stand to win $150,000 apiece if they have not sold their chances. Twenty holders of tickets on Commander the Third will receive $75,000 each, while there are twenty prizes of $30,000 each on Highlander.

Placed in hand
As usual, the Cambridgehire attracted most of the better handicappers in England and the American representation was greater than usual. A. C. Bostwick's Mate, which won only one minor race on the British turf this year, once again proved a disappointment.

Likewise out of the money were the other three American entries, William Woodward's Bondsman, Victor Emmanuel's Statesman and A. K. Macomber's Tabasco IV.

It was a sorry day for the book-makers, for the rank and file of the betting population had placed their wagers on Wychwood Abbott and on Mary Tudor II, with many thousands of dollars switching from the latter to the winner overnight.

Interesting Race
Probably no other classic on the English turf was ever watched with more interest in the United States than this one, for an unprecedented number of tickets in the Irish Hospitality sweepstakes were sold in America, and a lifetime high record number of Americans drew horses.

The importance of the race itself as a turf classic was overshadowed by the fact it represented one of the heaviest sweepstakes investments in history.

The race itself paid little more than $3,000 to the owner of the winning entry, but something more than $10,000,000 in sweepstakes prizes will be distributed to ticket-holders throughout the world.

Wychwood Abbott paid 9 to 1 in the betting, holding its position as favorite until post-time. Commander the Third paid 40 to 1 and Highlander 22 to 1.

Leonard K. Smith Of This City Wants $2500 From H. E. Blackmar Of New Jersey

Leonard K. Smith of this city has filed a suit at the probate court's office against Harry E. Blackmar of Hopewell, N. J., in which he asks for $2500 damages as the result of an auto accident on the New Castle-Harleysburg road.

Smith claims that on June 3, 1934, Blackmar was driving west on the Harleysburg road, and was at a curve near the McCracken farm, about five miles from this city, when he attempted to pass a truck that was ahead of him.

Smith, with James Cowmeadow as a passenger on his motorcycle, was going east, and when Blackmar turned out to pass the truck he crashed into the Smith motorcycle.

The motorcycle was completely wrecked and Smith was painfully injured. Smith claims that Blackmar was driving at a high and dangerous rate of speed and that the accident was due to his carelessness in trying to pass the truck on a curve.

CONSIDER HUGE PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM

Administration Studying Plans

Low-Cost Housing Program Will Be Presented To Congress

TEN BILLIONS MAY BE TOTAL OF FUND

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A $10,000,000,000 public works program, financed over a long period of years at a low interest rate, may become a reality in the 74th congress.

Such a program, among many other suggestions, is now under study by administration officials. In response to a presidential mandate, they are seeking ways and means of either eliminating outright cash doles entirely, or reducing them to the absolute minimum.

Is Best Means
A large scale program, such as is now being explored, impresses most of Mr. Roosevelt's advisers as offering the best means to accomplish this end. In such a program would be included low cost housing construction and slum clearance projects such as the president recently stated would be proposed to congress; enlargement of the subsistence homestead areas, rural electrification development, and lesser projects which would fit into the general picture.

All that responsible administration officials would say today was that this ambitious program was under consideration. It was emphasized no decisions have been reached, although Mr. Roosevelt already has stated that low-cost housing will definitely be one of his proposals to congress.

The federal government also is getting ready to tighten up on the direct federal relief.

Must Provide Share
States will shortly be asked to contribute a greater share toward the national relief support. Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator said today.

All states will be asked to furnish a minimum of 40 percent of their relief cost, Hopkins said, and some will be expected to contribute as much as two-thirds.

Those states which will be expected to meet the minimum of 40 percent, he indicated will include, among others, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, California and Virginia.

Other states, not named by the relief head, will be called on for 50 percent of their state unemployment payment. Many states now are virtually carried by the federal government, which in the majority of cases has averaged payment of 60 percent of their unemployment relief load.

VOTE SUPPORT FOR SCHNADER

dent Roosevelt. His words failed to bring applause.

Schnader's discussion centered about "home rule" and he asserted President Roosevelt was not an issue in the campaign.

Overjoyed by the reception given him by McNair's city payrollers, Schnader went before the Republican rally with a vigorous denial that he is "in any conspiracy with Governor Pinchot to unseat Reed after he is elected."

"If anyone tries to deny Dave Reed his senatorial seat after he is elected, I'll fight as hard as I can with both fists to help him sustain his right to it," the gubernatorial nominee declared.

Reed ran the gauntlet of criticism of the national administration's policies. He said its inflation policy works the hardest "on the farmer and the factory worker" and then made a startling revelation when he uttered:

Not Fighting Roosevelt
"I'm not fighting Roosevelt. I'm fighting the unsound policies the professors are reading into his administration."

The senior senator assailed broken pledges and then charged the hydro-electric program in the Tennessee valley would "displace 62 million tons of coal every year and throw 115,000 coal miners out of a job."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot who has swept through the state assailing Democrats comes to McKeesport tonight. Because of his recent assertion that "you ain't heard nothing yet," political observers expect to see him cut loose once again against the Democratic standard-bearers he has so vigorously denounced.

Judge Releases Non-Taxpayer In Greensburg Court

(International News Service) GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—Committed to jail a week ago for his alleged non-payment of 1929 township taxes, John Mitchell, 47, an unemployed Hempfield township resident, was ordered released immediately by Judge William T. Dom at the conclusion of a habeas corpus hearing today.

The tax bill for which Mitchell was sent to the county jail amounted to $12.30, plus court costs of $9. The action was brought against him by former tax collector Franklin M. Harold, of Hempfield township.

Judge Dom pointed out that Mitchell should not have been committed to jail until a levy on his personal property had been made or until investigation by proper authorities established that he was deliberately trying to avoid payment of the taxes.

witness the classic, including thousands who had bought sweepstakes tickets in this country.

Twenty holders of sweepstakes tickets on Wychwood Abbott stand to win $150,000 apiece if they have not sold their tickets. Twenty holders of tickets on Commander the Third will receive $75,000 each, while there are twenty prizes of $30,000 each on Highlander.

Finest In Land

As usual, the Cambridgeshire attracted most of the better handicap horses in England and the American representation was greater than usual. A. C. Bostwick's Mate, which won only one minor race on the British turf this year, once again proved a disappointment.

Likewise out of the money were the other three American entries, William Woodward's Bondsman, Victor Emmanuel's Statesman and A. K. MacComber's Tabasco IV.

It was a sorry day for the bookmakers, for the rank and file of the betting population had placed their wagers on Wychwood Abbott and on Mary Tudor II, with many thousands of dollars switching from the latter to the winner overnight.

Interesting Race

Probably no other classic on the English turf was ever watched with more interest in the United States than this one. For an unprecedented number of tickets in the Irish Hospitals sweepstakes were sold in America, and an alltime high record number of Americans drew horses.

The importance of the race itself as a turf classic was overshadowed by the fact it represented one of the heaviest sweepstakes investments in history.

The race itself paid little more than $5,000 to the owner of the winning entry, but something more than $10,000,000 in sweepstakes prizes will be distributed to ticket-holders throughout the world.

Wychwood Abbott paid 9 to 1 in the betting, holding its position as favorite until post-time. Commander the Third paid 40 to 1 and Highlander 22 to 1.

TOW CARS AWAY

Four automobiles which were found in the path of the city streets sweeper were towed to a garage last night and the owners had to pay towing and storage charges to obtain their cars today.

Special guests were former members of the Happy Hour club and the assembly, numbering 28, spent a delightful evening. The house was decorated in seasonal colors and was beautiful. The affair was a real ghost party, guests arriving attired in muslin sheets and pillow cases and even sugar bags of various shapes and descriptions. Some of the outfits were embellished with black cats and other symbols of Halloween, the group making a well-looking assembly who had a wonderful time.

Bingo was played throughout the evening, after unmasking, with radio music an additional diversion. Prizes were awarded the several winners.

At midnight an elegant lunch was served. Luscious pumpkin pie, gingerbread, candy, cider 'n everything, were on the menu. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. R. G. Leslie.

Before departing, Mrs. Thomas Moore, in behalf of the West Side Needlecraft, presented Mrs. Jesse Moore, nee Virginia Thompson, a recent bride, who is a daughter of the hostess, with a handsome gift, a combination cake and pie saver. In behalf of the Happy Hour club, Mrs. Scott McCaslin presented the bride with a gorgeous orchid bed spread.

The next meeting of the Needlecraft will be held November 14 at the home of Mrs. George Jackson on Round street.

The Happy Hour club will have its next meeting on Thursday, November 22, at the home of Mrs. R. G. Leslie on Moore avenue.

McCLURE BIBLE CLASS HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL

Tuesday evening about 50 members of the McClure Bible Class of the First Presbyterian church joined in a Halloween carnival in the church. To gain admission to the fête it was necessary for each to enter by "the Spooky Way", which was dark and set with obstacles.

After going up and down stairs, bumping into hobgoblins of every variety, falling over chairs, striking posts, finally an entrance was obtained. But after gaining entrance to the scene of hilarity, games and stunts appropriate to the season kept the group amused until 11 o'clock.

At this time all were invited to partake of a most appetizing lunch, served at tables decorated in true Halloween fashion, with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kramer, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Perree and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shaffer, as hosts.

WILL WRITING GAME

FEATURES AMUSEMENTS

With ghosts and goblins and like characters of the eerie world scaring common folks most out of their wits for the past week or so, it is no wonder that some original person discovered a "will writing contest" as a most appropriate occupation for Halloween parties.

At any rate, one such contest was the high spot in a hilarious evening's entertainment last evening in the home of Mrs. John Hemminger on the Butler road, with 25 members of section G, Y. L. B. of the Third U. P. church participants.

Mrs. Walter Richardson won the prize for writing the best will and for a corn guessing game, Mrs. Bill Williams was the fortunate winner. Mrs. Eugene Hall of Mt. Jackson, a former member, was a special guest, together with Mrs. Elmer Glass, Mrs. Harry Strawsbaugh and Miss Tyrus Hemminger.

Luncheon was served, buffet style, in keeping with the occasion, and in serving the hostess had the assistance of Mrs. Glass and Miss Hemminger.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR DAVID HORCHLER

Mrs. Ronald Horchler entertained 16 tiny tots at her home on West Cherry street, honoring third birthday of her son David, which occurred October 27.

The little ones romped and played various games, among which was a treasure hunt. Prizes were won by Dorothy Homin, Vera Mae Shaffer, Charles Edward Cartwright, Lois Shaffer, Jean Todd and Herbie Shaffer. Mrs. E. A. Horchler, the little honored guest's grandmother, and Mrs. William Horchler, his great-grandmother, were special guests.

The children were delighted with the "regular" Halloween lunch served with Halloween plates, napkins, favors 'n everything matching. Martha Jane Horchler assisted.

David was the recipient of many pretty presents.

MISS OLIVE HOUK HOSTESS TO CHOIR

Tuesday evening Miss Olive Houk, East Washington street, entertained the members of the choir of the Reformed Presbyterian church at an interesting Halloween party.

Her apartment was cleverly decorated for the event, adding a festive air, while Halloween stunts and games intermingled with songs and conversation.

During the evening it was revealed the date was that of the birth of the hostess, so each guest presented her with a gift, some of them practical, some foolish; this shower created much merriment.

The refreshments carried out the seasonal idea, the hostess being assisted by Jean and Annabelle Tindall, Peggy Pattison and Margaret Cole.

PLAN RECEPTION FOR NONAGENARIAN

In honor of the ninetieth birthday of her mother, Mrs. A. M. Stockberger, Mrs. Charles E. Patterson, of 808 Chestnut street, has planned a reception for Saturday afternoon and evening. She is the widow of a Civil War veteran, and has spent practically her entire life in New Castle, which she has seen grow from a small village to a city of considerable size.

Evening Wedding.

The bride wore a lovely blue crepe gown, fashioned on simple lines, and her flowers were Talisman roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Charles Leider of Cleveland, whose costume was a blue ensemble with which she carried American Beauty roses. Charles Sward was best man.

At 9 o'clock a buffet supper was served in the bride's home to 28, many of the guests being from Cleveland, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Sharon. Decorations were carried out in large floral arrangements and white tones.

Jolikosins Club

An enjoyable meeting of the Jolikosins club was held Tuesday evening in the North Mill street home of Mrs. Emmet Reardon, who entertained informally at cards. Prizes for honors were captured by Mrs. Cronie and Mrs. Clem Gardner.

PLEA FOR HUNTING SAFETY

USE your head before your trigger finger.

That admonition today summed up the annual plea of Game Commission officials to the sportsmen, several hundred thousand strong, who will open the small game season in the state tomorrow.

Because the dead and injured last year was a record low mark commission officials are hopeful of still further lowering the unnecessary annual toll.

Yet the files of the commission show that foolish things a few "sportsmen" do. Dozens of men have been killed because a fool at the end of a gun mistook them for ground-hogs. Even horses and cows have been killed in the belief they were rabbits.

By legal means and license revocation the commission has been weeding that sort of hunter out of the ranks of those afield. Yet each year others who obtained licenses are revealed.

The "gun that wasn't loaded" and "I saw something move and thought it was game" lead in causing deaths and injuries. Others like carrying a cocked gun never fail to take their quota.

Hunting, officials believe, is a field where the old saw about "accidents will happen," should be disproved.

A good sportsman handles a loaded gun with as much respect as he would a lighted stick of dynamite. That, they believe, is a good attitude.

Make Safety First the slogan of the hunting season!

ONE-CLUB GOLF

There is, it seems, something new in golf. In the English Woman's championship, played on the Seacroft course at Skegness there appeared a Miss Gloria Minoprio, a stately lady attired in dark blue trousers and white jumper, with an equipment of one solitary club, a cleveland. With this she proceeded to win 2 and 1 from a Miss Betty Somerville. According to George Greenwood, British writer, it was the first time any player had won a championship match using only one club.

In the second round Miss Minoprio was beaten 7 and 6 by Miss Mary Johnson, who subsequently went to the final, in which she in turn was beaten 4 and 3 over the 36-hole route by Miss Phyllis Wade.

The main point in bringing up the subject of Miss Minoprio and her one-club championship endeavor is a reported undercurrent of feeling on the part of some of the golfing leaders on both sides of the Atlantic that the number of clubs allowed individuals, at least in championship play, should be reduced. Chick Evans, winner of both the national amateur and open titles, advanced that idea years ago. Other topnotchers have expressed themselves, in private, as favorable to such a move upon the part of championships authorities.

They feel that a high percentage of individual skill and certainly of judgment has been taken out of the game by this tendency on the part of the manufacturers to provide "a club for every shot." It is easy to understand, from another angle, how many of the professionals would hesitate to back any movement on curtailment. They could see in such a move a curtailment in sales and profits, as well as a greater problem in teaching their pupils the art of scoring in satisfactory figures.

THE BATTLE OF THE WOMEN

Three women of New York want to go to Congress. They are all running on State-wide tickets for Representative-at-Large—Caroline O'Day, Democrat; Natalie F. Couch, Republican, and Dorothy Brooks, Law Preservation. They are having a time of it, these three, and the wife of the president has been drawn into it in behalf of the lady Democrat who, it appears, is the financial angel of Mrs. Roosevelt's furniture factory at Hyde Park.

While the Republican contestant has not openly criticized Mrs. Roosevelt for taking to the stump and delivering an address at Buffalo, there is no hesitation on the part of Miss Brooks. True, the president's wife asserted that she was campaigning strictly as an individual, but Miss Brooks doesn't see it that way. "The very prominence of your position as wife of the president," she writes to Mrs. Roosevelt, "makes it difficult for other candidates to campaign against you and your candidate." She makes the "definite charge that you are deliberately using your position as wife of the president and the social prestige that goes with the exalted office for the purpose of attracting audiences and voters for my opponent. This is eminently unfair."

It is something new in our history for the mistress of the White House to leave its precincts and sally forth on a purely political expedition. However, Mrs. Roosevelt does many things that are new. The question arises just where the line is to be drawn between her position as an individual and that of her at least semi-official duties.

JUST RAMBLING AROUND

Lack of confidence is said to be retarding business. Well, one thing is sure. There is no lack of confidence men.

One Hoover institution that still seems to be doing pretty well in these Democratic times is the RFC.

What has become of the old fashioned wet who thought that the tax from liquor would pay the entire expenses of administering the New Deal? Maybe the administration expects to get rid of the biggest deficit in history by ploughing it under.

No matter how you explain the fact that Great Britain is going ahead of the United States in recovering from the depression, you have to admit that John Bull turned the trick without the aid of Prof. Tugwell and Prof. Mordecai Ezekiel, to say nothing of Henry Wallace.

The Republican and Democratic committees both have deficits, but it ought to be some consolation to them to know that Uncle Sam has a lot bigger one.

Remember the good old times when the fellow who tried to say "Peter Piper Picked a Peck of Pickled Peppers" was the life of the party?

An Italian flyer flew 74 miles a minute. If he keeps on he'll get there.

Nature is kind. Rich men take the spoiled beauties and leave the best wives for the poor.

You can tell those who have been broadened by travel. They know how to pronounce "visa."

If only the salesman would call regularly after you buy the thing and keep you thinking it a wonder.

I WAS SIDNEY CARTON. I used to be Sidney Carton. Don't scoff. I say I was... For six great months when I was about 15 years old I was Sidney Carton himself, and I'm sorry for all small boys that have never been Sidney Carton. They can be Babe Ruth. They can be Tarzan if they wish. I had my fun in the long ago being that heroic rake who was Sidney Carton.

You remember him, I know. You remember that story of Charles Dickens, "A Tale of Two Cities," and you have not forgotten that lone, weak, brave Sidney Carton, that drunkard, that wasteful youth, who gave his life so gallantly for his love. You remember him sitting in his room, with a bottle before him and a wet cloth about his aching head, and his heart filled with desperate plans and melancholy dreams. And you remember him as he rose and made his final resolution, made his noble sacrifice, murmuring: "It is a far, far better thing I do than I have ever done; it is a far, far better life I go to than I have ever known!"

Nobody else knew I was Sidney Carton, but I knew it... I walked the streets of our little town, alone, and as I walked I heard the screams of the infuriated mobs and the creaking of the tumblers carrying the victims to the guillotine and I saw the bloody heads tumble into the basket... I lost at marbles with a noble melancholy air and with enormous dignity refused a second helping of mush... And sometimes I'd get off my bicycle and walk up the side porch stairs with my hands clasped behind my back and my chin lifted and my eyes fixed on death, whispering bravely to myself: "It is a far, far better thing I do than I have ever done."

But alas! it came to a dismal end. Sidney Carton died in my breast. Booth Tarkington killed him... I went to a motion picture and I saw Jack Pickford playing "Seventeen," and I saw Jack put his right hand on the banister and walk up the stairs with his chin high, saying to himself, just as I did, "It is a far, far better life I go to than I have ever known." And at that instant my Sidney Carton died, brutally outraged by the laughter of that callous audience in that little theater... I'm sorry. I suppose it had to happen. The Sidney Cartons must die. But I'm sorry for that small boy who for a little while dreamed he was Sidney Carton. He lived richly while it lasted, and has no regrets.

THE OLD SHAVING MUGS. Do you remember the barber shop with the shaving mugs in the private rack set out in a glittering row.

When as boys we sat in the red plush chair and dreamed of our renown.

As we read in letters of gold the names of the biggest men in the world.

Then wondered if ever the time would come, as the barber clipped and snipped.

When I'd have my name on a shaving mug in that strange Old English script.

Oh, brother o'mine, do you now recall that mug which we fancied best?

There wasn't room for his given name, so they printed it thus: "E. Guest."

It belonged to dad and it proved his worth, for only the biggest bugs

Of the neighborhood then were given the right to personal shaving mugs.

So we looked at it with admiring eyes and we thought it achievement fine.

When the barber boasted "those names up there are of mighty good friends of mine."

Through misty eyes I can read them now, for the lettering still seems plain:

"Snyder," "Donaldson," "Stewart," "Graves," and the one on the end, "Chas. Crane."

The mayor, the druggist, the merchant prince! I tell you my heart was glad

To see such a splendor of shaving mugs all sharing the row with dad!

Oh, the years seem long as we look ahead, but short as we're glancing back.

And never, I thought, shall I read my name on a mug in a private rack.

Now the times have changed and the barber shop is not what it used to be.

Since the women are purchasing permanent waves, it is more like a factory.

It is all cluttered up with strange machines, with blowers, and ovens grim.

And never a man has a shaving mug exclusively kept for him.

The great drop in and they hasten out, and gone are the times, alas!

When fame meant letters of English script on a mug in a private rack.

Skating Disaster—Stout lady (seeing suddenly): "John, this ice is really very lumpy."

It seems to us calling it the "Brain Twist" would be more appropriate.

A local bird said he knew the doctor he went to was a quack because when a member of the coast guard had a nervous breakdown he sent him to the seashore.

You never hear of any strike against the wages of sin.

Another of those inflated slogans is being used by Sinclair who is running for governor of California. It is "EPIK" which stands for End Boy who for a little while dreamed he was Sidney Carton. He lived richly while it lasted, and has no regrets.

Vital statistics covering the national spread show the birthrate has declined sharply.

The inquiring minds investigating the subject are in doubt as to whether it is due to the depression or a more general knowledge of birth control.

Perhaps it's the result of both—another evidence of cause and effect.

So there goes another treasured tradition. Is there no end to this modern iconoclastic urge?

Most always when the devil is to pay the bill is quickly settled.

When people overthrow a tyrant, the chief result is that a new type of boss orders the hangings.

A View Of Coming Congress Likely To Be Independent Progressive Measures To Fore

Central Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The independence of the coming congress will surprise many persons. The Republicans have been calling for an independent congress—Independent of President Roosevelt. This independence, however, will be at variance with Republican desires. It will be an independence that, truly enough, will throw aside the "soft," heavy pressure of President Roosevelt, but the turn will be to the left, not to the right.

The progressives evidently have finished with the political part of the Roosevelt administration—the Jim Farleys and the Emil Hurjas.

At the very beginning of the session, congress will find itself troubled—troubled over recent occurrences, for example. (At least, so the progressives put it.) The Roosevelt administration has spoken one way, and the Democratic party machine has operated in another direction.

Progressives will be investigating that the administration will not be eager to make.

In particular, in spl., of apparent evidence that Democrats suffered from the elimination of unemployed persons on the voting lists in certain regions, the Democratic high command is willing to permit that to pass. It can win in spite of such tactics, it will not belittle itself, it will say. There is a sort of tacit understanding among politicians of both sides that craftiness if permissible, that it is part of the game.

The progressives do not see the matter in that light. They term such tactics as corruption.

The progressives are hearing plenty of stories of intimidation of voters, of dismissal of employees, of enforced contribution to campaign funds and of disenfranchisement. California has received the publicity, but California is not the only state.

AN EMERGENCY? Announcement of the A. & P. chain store organization that it would close its many stores in Cleveland because of unionization has raised an interesting question: "If the food stores are necessary to the public weal has the president not the authority, under the NRA, to operate them for the public good?"

GO TO CHURCH IN A RECEPTIVE MOOD

Too many people make the excuse that they do not attend church because the minister's sermons are poorly prepared and not well delivered.

All ministers cannot be good orators. Many more than all writers can be good writers, or all lawyers unskillfully gifted.

The person with the right spirit does not attend church solely because of the preaching or the music. There is something deeper and more important than the delivery of the sermon.

The desire to attend divine service should be prompted by the conviction that at least a portion of one day in seven should be given to religious thought in the proper atmosphere.

Many ministers would give better sermons if they could have the inspiration of larger congregations.

It is not conducive to enthusiasm and best efforts to have prepared a thoughtful and interestingly helpful sermon and find a handful of persons to listen.

There is much good in anything a minister will say.

Attendants should go in a receptive mood, and get something worthwhile.

"Well, sir," the sailor replied, "I had only two bits to start with."

TODAY Is The Day

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31

The World War Day-By-Day—Oct. 31, 1914.—The British cruiser Hermes was sunk by a German submarine in the Straits of Dover while moving at full speed.

Coming so soon after the exploit which had lost the Aboukir, the Cressy and the Hoguet, the sinking of the Hawke and the destruction of the super-dreadnaught Audacious, the torpedoing of the Hermes shattered the confidence of British admiralty that it would be able to deal with German's second-rate navy. Von Tirpitz with his smaller and weaker force of submarines had been able to inflict serious blows to the British navy.

Including the Pathfinder and the Amphion, which were sunk by striking German mines, and the Fagus, which was battered to pieces off the coast of Zanzibar by a German cruiser, the British had now lost seven cruisers and one super-dreadnaught of the line.

There was big war news on the other side of the world, too. The combined British and Japanese combined of besieged Tsingtau, a German foothold in the Far East, began.

War correspondents were enabled to see "the attack of warships, the fire of infantry and artillery, the maneuvering of airships over the enemy's lines, and the rolling up from the rear of reinforcements and supplies, all at one sweep of the eye." From Prinz Heinrich Borg, 1000 feet above the city.

The same kind of air, land and sea battle was still raging in Flanders. The theater of war had shifted of big scene from the flooded Yser country to Ypres.

The battle near and south of Ypres, which had been raging since October 20, had its crisis and turning point on the 31st. For three days the fate of the whole Allied cause trembled in the balance.

History Up-To-Date—Oct. 31, 1517.—The doors of the Church of All Saints were used commonly for university proclamations. The Elector Frederick was a great collector of the bones of saints and stored them in the church. He had procured an indulgence for all who attended its services on All Saints' Day and crowds gathered.

PLEA FOR HUNTING SAFETY

USE your head before your trigger finger.
That admonition today summed up the annual plea of Game Commission officials to the sportsmen, several hundred thousand strong, who will open the small game season in the state tomorrow.

Because the dead and injured last year was a record low mark commission officials are hopeful of still further lowering the unnecessary annual toll.

Yet the files of the commission show that foolish things a few "sportsmen" do. Dozens of men have been killed because a fool at the end of a gun mistook them for ground-hogs. Even horses and cows have been killed in the belief they were rabbits.

By legal means and license revocation the commission has been weeding that sort of hunter out of the ranks of those afraid. Yet each year others who obtained licenses are revealed.

The "gun that wasn't loaded" and "I saw something move and thought it was game" lead in causing deaths and injuries. Others like carrying a cocked gun never fail to take their quota. Hunting, officials believe, is a field where the old saw about "accidents will happen," should be disproved.

A good sportsman handles a loaded gun with as much respect as he would a lighted stick of dynamite. That, they believe, is a good attitude.

Make Safety First the slogan of the hunting season!

ONE-CLUB GOLF

There is, it seems, something new in golf. In the English Woman's championship, played on the Seacroft course at Skegness there appeared a Miss Gloria Minoprio, a stately lady attired in dark blue trousers and white jumper, with an equipment of one solitary club, a cleveland. With this she proceeded to win 2 and 1 from a Miss Betty Somerville. According to George Greenwood, British writer, it was the first time any player had won a championship match using only one club. In the second round Miss Minoprio was beaten 7 and 6 by Miss Mary Johnson, who subsequently went to the final, in which she in turn was beaten 4 and 3 over the 36-hole route by Miss Phyllis Wade.

The main point in bringing up the subject of Miss Minoprio and her one-club championship endeavor is a reported undercurrent of feeling on the part of some of the golfing leaders on both sides of the Atlantic that the number of clubs allowed individuals, at least in championship play, should be reduced. Chick Evans, winner of both the national amateur and open titles, advanced that idea years ago. Other topnotchers have expressed themselves, in private, as favorable to such a move upon the part of championships authorities.

They feel that a high percentage of individual skill and certainly of judgment has been taken out of the game by this tendency on the part of the manufacturers to provide "a club for every shot." It is easy to understand, from another angle, how many of the professionals would hesitate to back any movement on curtailment. They could see in such a move a curtailment in sales and profits, as well as a greater problem in teaching their pupils the art of scoring in satisfactory figures.

THE BATTLE OF THE WOMEN

Three women of New York want to go to Congress. They are all running on State-wide tickets for Representative-at-Large—Caroline O'Day, Democrat; Natalie F. Couch, Republican, and Dorothy Brooks, Law Preservation. They are having a time of it, these three, and the wife of the president has been drawn into it in behalf of the lady Democrat who, it appears, is the financial angel of Mrs. Roosevelt's furniture factory at Hyde Park.

While the Republican contestant has not openly criticized Mrs. Roosevelt for taking to the stump and delivering an address at Buffalo, there is no hesitation on the part of Miss Brooks. True, the president's wife asserted that she was campaigning strictly as an individual, but Miss Brooks doesn't see it that way. "The very prominence of your position as wife of the president," she writes to Mrs. Roosevelt, "makes it difficult for other candidates to campaign against you and your candidate." She makes the "definite charge that you are deliberately using your position as wife of the president and the social prestige that goes with the exalted office for the purpose of attracting audiences and voters for my opponent. This is eminently unfair."

It is something new in our history for the mistress of the White House to leave its precincts and sally forth on a purely political expedition. However, Mrs. Roosevelt does many things that are new. The question arises just where the line is to be drawn between her position as an individual and that of her at least semi-official duties.

JUST RAMBLING AROUND

Lack of confidence is said to be retarding business. Well, one thing is sure. There is no lack of confidence men.

One Hoover institution that still seems to be doing pretty well in these Democratic times is the RFC.

What has become of the old fashioned wet who thought that the tax from liquor would pay the entire expenses of administering the New Deal? Maybe the administration expects to get rid of the biggest deficit in history by ploughing it under.

No matter how you explain the fact that Great Britain is going ahead of the United States in recovering from the depression, you have to admit that John Bull turned the trick without the aid of Prof. Tugwell and Prof. Mordecai Ezekiel, to say nothing of Henry Wallace.

The Republican and Democratic committees both have deficits, but it ought to be some consolation to them to know that Uncle Sam has a lot bigger one.

Remember the good old times when the fellow who tried to say "Peter Piper Picked a Peck of Pickled Peppers" was the life of the party?

An Italian flyer flew 74 miles a minute. If he keeps on he'll get there.

Nature is kind. Rich men take the spoiled beauties and leave the best wives for the poor.

You can tell those who have been broadened by travel. They know how to pronounce "visa."

I WAS SIDNEY CARTON

I used to be Sidney Carton.
Don't scoff. I say I was... For six great months when I was about 15 years old I was Sidney Carton myself, and I'm sorry for all small boys that have never been Sidney Carton. They can be Babe Ruth, they can be Tarzan if they wish. I had my fun in the long ago being that heroic rake who was Sidney Carton.
You remember him, I know. You remember that story of Charles Dickens, "A Tale of Two Cities," and you have not forgotten that lone, weak, brave Sidney Carton, that drunkard, that wasteful youth, who gave his life so gallantly for his love. You remember him sitting in his room, with a bottle before him and a wet cloth about his aching head, and his heart filled with desperate plans and melancholy dreams. And you remember him as he rose and made his final resolution, made his noble sacrifice, murmuring: "It is a far, far better thing I do than I have ever done; it is a far far better life I go to than I have ever known!"

Nobody else knew I was Sidney Carton, but I knew it... I walked the streets of our little town, alone, and as I walked I heard the screams of the infuriated mobs and the creaking of the tumblers carrying the victims to the guillotine and I saw the bloody heads tumble into the basket. I lost at marbles with a noble melancholy air and with enormous dignity refused a second helping of mush. And sometimes I'd get off my bicycle and walk up the side porch stairs with my hands clasped behind my back and my chin lifted and my eyes fixed on death, whispering bravely to myself: "It is a far, far better thing I do than I have ever done."

But alas! it came to a dismal end. Sidney Carton died in my breast. Booth Tarkington killed him. I went to a motion picture and I saw Jack Pickford playing "Seventeen," and I saw Jack put his right hand on the banister and walk up the stairs with his chin high, saying to himself, just as I did, "It is a far, far better life I go to than I have ever known." And at that instant my Sidney Carton died, brutally outraged by the laughter of that callous audience in that little theater. I'm sorry, I suppose it had to happen. The Sidney Cartons must die. But I'm NOT sorry for that small boy who for a little while dreamed he was Sidney Carton. He lived richly while it lasted, and has no regrets.

THE OLD SHAVING MUGS

Do you remember the barber shop of the days of long ago. With the shaving mugs in the priming rack set out in a glittering row.
When as boys we sat in the red plush chair and dreamed of our renown
As we read in letters of gold the names of the biggest men in the town?
Then wondered if ever the time would come, as the barber clipped and sopped,
When I have my name on a shaving mug in that strange Old English script.

Oh, brother o'mine, do you now recall that mug which you fancied best?
There wasn't room for his given name, so they printed it thus: "E. Guest."

It belonged to dad and it proved his worth, for only the biggest bugs of the neighborhood then were granted the right to personal shaving mugs.

So we looked at it with admiring eyes and we thought it achievement fine.
When the barber boasted "those names up there are of mighty good friends of mine."

Through misty eyes I can read them now, for the lettering still seems plain:
"Snyder," "Donaldson," "Stewart," "Graves," and the one on the end, "Chas. Crane."

The mayor, the druggist, the merchant prince! I'll tell you my heart was glad
To see such a splendor of shaving mugs all sharing the row with Dad!

Oh, the years seem long as we look ahead, but short as we're glancing back,
And never, I thought, shall I read my name on a mug in a private rack.

Now the times have changed and the barber shop is not what it used to be.
Since the women are purchasing permanent waves, it is more like a factory.

It is all cluttered up with strange machines, with blowers, and ovens grim,
And never a man has a shaving mug exclusively kept for him.

The great drop in and they hasten out, and gone are the times, alas!
When fame meant letters of English script on a mug in a private rack.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The independence of the coming congress will surprise many persons. The Republicans have been calling for an independent congress—Independent of President Roosevelt. This independence, however, will be at variance with Republican desires. It will be an independence that, truly enough, will throw aside the "soft, heavy" pressure of President Roosevelt, but the turn will be to the left, not to the right.

The progressives evidently have finished with the political part of the Roosevelt administration—the Jim Farleys and the Emil Hurjas.

TROUBLED BEGINNING

Progressives will be for investigation that the administration will not be eager to make.

In particular, in spl. of apparent evidence that Democrats suffered from the elimination of unemployed persons on the voting lists in certain regions, the Democratic high command is willing to permit that to pass. It can win in spite of such tactics, it will not belittle itself, it will say. There is a sort of tacit understanding among politicians of both sides that craftiness if permissible, that it is part of the game.

The progressives do not see the matter in that light. They term such tactics as corruption.

The progressives are hearing plenty of stories of intimidation of voters, of dismissal of employees, of enforced contribution to campaign funds and of disenfranchisement. California has received the publicity, but California is not the only state.

TAXES
An intense fight will develop in congress over taxes.

Business men are urging that business "be permitted to increase by normal means, thus increasing the flow of taxes."

The administration probably will not push for much higher taxes, except on inheritances.

But congress undoubtedly will be for higher taxes in the upper brackets.

Senator Huey Long of Louisiana has many a follower in his "Share Our Wealth" campaign. He probably has no succinct plan of procedure, but the progressives will prepare one for him—and he probably will seize it as his own.

That plan is likely to embrace three steps:

(1) Tightening the laws to prevent evasion by the wealthy;

(2) Increases in the higher brackets;

(3) Public ownership or public control of necessities, eliminating profit.

One can imagine what a fight there will be over this. President Roosevelt will be trying to jam on the brakes, perhaps with only a modicum of success.

Further increases in taxation will drive money into hiding, economists assert. In fact, it already is in hiding. Obviously, something is wrong with the system. Some men are saying that the United States finally is heading toward Henry George's single tax, or a socialization of land. But even that would not work under our present restricted trade policy. The single tax is based on a free interchange of trade among nations. Business desperately needs such interchange, all workers, all agriculturists need it. There will be nothing to tax unless there is trade—or to put it into its simplest terms, barter and trade.

BONUS. FARMERS
A cash bonus for soldiers seems likely for the better part of an hour. Upon his return his superior officer demanded:

"Did you succeed in breaking up the game?"

"Yes, sir," replied the gob.

"Well, what in thunder took you so long?"

"Well, sir," the sailor replied, "I had only two bits to start with."

THE FIRST OFFICER called a deck-hand to him and said:

"Go below and break up that crap game."

The sailor disappeared, below, and returned with the better part of an hour. Upon his return his superior officer demanded:

"Did you succeed in breaking up the game?"

"Yes, sir," replied the gob.

so greater degree of inflation—perhaps to "real inflation."

Donald Richberg, new directing head of the NRA, says the dollar is sounder now than it has been at any time in years. Men who deal in money admit that the dollar is sound enough, but that its fluctuations and the future value make it an uncertain quality.

Money, of course, is only a medium to facilitate exchange of trade—and trade among nations (the basis of wealth) is very uncertain.

As long as trade among nations is shut off, prices of commodities can be maintained only by artificial means and artificial means lead to artificial dollars (inflation).

FREEDOM
So much has been said of freedom these past few months—so much, rather, has been mouthed in political speeches—that the people not only have become conscious of it, but have become suspicious.

Some of the senators against whom the word has been used in the present campaign will speak the feelings of a large part of the populace.

They will begin to demand real safeguards for the protection of progressive measures. Thus the cry will act as a boomerang to those who uttered it for political or selfish purposes.

PLEA FOR HUNTING SAFETY

USE your head before your trigger finger.
That admonition today summed up the annual plea of Game Commission officials to the sportsmen, several hundred thousand strong, who will open the small game season in the state tomorrow.

Because the dead and injured last year was a record low mark commission officials are hopeful of still further lowering the unnecessary annual toll.

Yet the files of the commission show that foolish things a few "sportsmen" do. Dozens of men have been killed because a foot at the end of a gun mistook them for ground-hogs. Even horses and cows have been killed in the belief they were rabbits.

By legal means and license revocation the commission has been weeding that sort of hunter out of the ranks of those afield. Yet each year others who obtained licenses are revealed.

The "gun that wasn't loaded" and "I saw something move and thought it was game" lead in causing deaths and injuries. Others like carrying a cocked gun never fail to take their quota.

Hunting, officials believe, is a field where the old saw about "accidents will happen," should be disproved.

A good sportsman handles a loaded gun with as much respect as he would a lighted stick of dynamite. That, they believe, is a good attitude.

Make Safety First the slogan of the hunting season!

ONE-CLUB GOLF

There is, it seems, something new in golf. In the English Women's championship, played on the Seacroft course at Skogness there appeared a Miss Gloria Minoprio, a stately lady attired in dark blue trousers and white jumper, with an equipment of one solitary club, a cleveland. With this she proceeded to win 2 and 1 from a Miss Betty Somerville. According to George Greenwood, British writer, it was the first time any player had won a championship match using only one club. In the second round Miss Minoprio was beaten 7 and 6 by Miss Mary Johnson, who subsequently went to the final, in which she in turn was beaten 4 and 3 over the 36-hole route by Miss Phyllis Wade.

The main point in bringing up the subject of Miss Minoprio and her one-club championship endeavor is a reported undercurrent of feeling on the part of some of the golfing leaders on both sides of the Atlantic that the number of clubs allowed individuals, at least in championship play, should be reduced. Chick Evans, winner of both the national amateur and open titles, advanced that idea years ago. Other topnotchers have expressed themselves, in private, as favorable to such a move upon the part of championships authorities.

They feel that a high percentage of individual skill and certainly of judgment has been taken out of the game by this tendency on the part of the manufacturers to provide "a club for every shot." It is easy to understand, from another angle, how many of the professionals would hesitate to back any movement on curtailment. They could see in such a move a curtailment in sales and profits, as well as a greater problem in teaching their pupils the art of scoring in satisfactory figures.

THE BATTLE OF THE WOMEN

Three women of New York want to go to Congress. They are all running on State-wide tickets for Representative-at-Large—Caroline O'Day, Democrat; Natalie F. Couch, Republican, and Dorothy Brooks, Law Preservation. They are having a time of it, these three, and the wife of the president has been drawn into it in behalf of the lady Democrat who, it appears, is the financial angel of Mrs. Roosevelt's furniture factory at Hyde Park.

While the Republican contestant has not openly criticized Mrs. Roosevelt for taking to the stump and delivering an address at Buffalo, there is no hesitation on the part of Miss Brooks. True, the president's wife asserted that she was campaigning strictly as an individual, but Miss Brooks doesn't see it that way. "The very prominence of your position as wife of the president," she writes to Mrs. Roosevelt, "makes it difficult for other candidates to campaign against you and your candidate." She makes the "definite charge that you are deliberately using your position as wife of the president and the social prestige that goes with the exalted office for the purpose of attracting audiences and voters for my opponent. This is eminently unfair."

It is something new in our history for the mistress of the White House to leave its precincts and sally forth on a purely political expedition. However, Mrs. Roosevelt does many things that are new. The question arises just where the line is to be drawn between her position as an individual and that of her at least semi-official duties.

JUST RAMBLING AROUND

Lack of confidence is said to be retarding business. Well, one thing is sure. There is no lack of confidence men.

One Hoover institution that still seems to be doing pretty well in these Democratic times is the RFC.

What has become of the old fashioned wet who thought that the tax from liquor would pay the entire expenses of administering the New Deal? Maybe the administration expects to get rid of the biggest deficit in history by ploughing it under.

No matter how you explain the fact that Great Britain is going ahead of the United States in recovering from the depression, you have to admit that John Bull turned the trick without the aid of Prof. Tugwell and Prof. Mordcaii Ezekiel, to say nothing of Henry Wallace.

The Republican and Democratic committees both have deficits, but it ought to be some consolation to them to know that Uncle Sam has a lot bigger one.

Remember the good old times when the fellow who tried to say "Peter Piper Picked a Peck of Pickled Peppers" was the life of the party?

An Italian flyer flew 7 1/4 miles a minute. If he keeps on he'll get there.

Nature is kind. Rich men take the spoiled beauties and leave the best wives for the poor.

You can tell those who have been broadened by travel. They know how to pronounce "visa."

If only the salesman would call regularly after you buy the thing and keep you thinking it a wonder.

I WAS SIDNEY CARTON. I used to be Sidney Carton. Don't scoff. I say I was... For six great months when I was about 15 years old I was Sidney Carton myself, and I'm sorry for all small boys that have never been Sidney Carton. They can be Babe Ruth, they can be Tarzan if they wish. I had my fun in the long ago being that heroic rake who was Sidney Carton.

You remember him, I know. You remember that story of Charles Dickens, "A Tale of Two Cities," and you have not forgotten that lone, weak, brave Sidney Carton, that drunken, that wasteful youth, who gave his life so gallantly for his love. You remember him sitting in his room, with a bottle before him and a wet cloth about his aching head, and his heart filled with desperate plans and melancholy dreams. And you remember him as he rose and made his final resolution, made his noble sacrifice, murmuring: "It is a far, far better thing I do than I have ever done; it is a far, far better life I go to than I have ever known!"

Nobody else knew I was Sidney Carton, but I knew it. I walked the streets of our little town, alone, and as I walked I heard the screams of the infuriated mobs and the creaking of the lumbering carrying the victims to the guillotine and I saw the bloody heads tumble into the basket. I lost at marbles with a noble melancholy air and with enormous dignity refused a second helping of mush. And sometimes I'd get off my bicycle and walk up the side porch stairs with my hands clasped behind my back and my chin lifted and my eyes fixed on death, whispering bravely to myself: "It is a far, far better thing I do than I have ever done."

But alas! It came to a dismal end. Sidney Carton died in my breast. Booth Tarkington killed him. I went to a motion picture and I saw Jack Pickford playing "Seventeen," and I saw Jack put his right hand on the banister and walk up the stairs with his chin high, saying to himself, just as I did, "It is a far, far better life I go to than I have ever known." And at that instant my Sidney Carton died, brutally outraged by the laughter of that caustic audience in that little theater. I'm sorry. I suppose it had to happen. The Sidney Cartons must die. But I'm sorry for that small boy who for a little while dreamed he was Sidney Carton. He lived richly while it lasted, and has no regrets.

THE OLD SHAVING MUGS Do you remember the hairy old shop with the shaving mugs in the window? With the shaving mugs in the private rack set out in a glittering row.

When as boys we sat in the red plush chair and dreamed of our renown As we read in letters of gold the names of the biggest men in the town?

Then wondered if ever the time would come, as the barber clipped and snipped, When I'd have my name on a shaving mug in that strange Old English script.

Oh, brother o'mine, do you now recall that mug which we fancied best?

There wasn't room for his given name, so they printed it thus: "E. Guest."

It belonged to dad and it proved his worth, for only the biggest bugs

Of the neighborhood then were granted the right to personal shaving mugs.

So we looked at it with admiring eyes and we thought it achievement fine

When the barber boasted "those names up there are of mighty good friends of mine."

Through misty eyes I can read them now, for the lettering still seems plain:

"Snyder," "Donaldson," "Stewart," "Graves," and the one on the end, "Chas. Crane."

The mayor, the druggist, the merchant prince! I'll tell you my heart was glad

To see such a splendor of shaving mugs all sharing the row with Dad!

Oh, the years seem long as we look ahead, but short as we're glancing back,

And never, I thought, shall I read my name on a mug in a private rack.

Now the times have changed and the hairy old shop is not what it used to be.

Since the women are purchasing permanent waves, it is more like a factory.

It is all cluttered up with strange machines, with blowers, and even grins,

And never a man has a shaving mug exclusively kept for him.

The great dip in and they hasten out, and gone are the times, ain't it?

When fame meant letters of English script on a mug in a private rack.

Benefits to farmers will continue. Business interests now are not so certain that this policy is unsound. Insurance companies, mail order houses, railroads, small merchants, interior banks are hoping the policy will continue.

That policy probably will lead to a greater degree of inflation—perhaps to "real inflation."

AN EMERGENCY? Announcement of the A. & P. chain store organization that it would close its many stores in Cleveland because of unionization has raised an interesting question:

"If the food stores are necessary to the public weal has it a president not the authority, under the NRA, to operate them for the public good?"

GO TO CHURCH IN A RECEPTIVE MOOD Too many people make the excuse that they do not attend church because the minister's sermons are poorly prepared and not well delivered.

All ministers cannot be good orators, nor can all be good writers, or all lawyers unusually gifted.

The person with the right spirit does not attend church solely because of the preaching or the music.

There is something deeper and more important than the delivery of the sermon.

The desire to attend divine service should be prompted by the conviction that at least a portion of one day in seven should be given to religious thought in the proper atmosphere.

Many ministers would give better service if they could have the inspiration of larger congregations.

It is not conducive to enthusiasm and best efforts to have prepared a thoughtful and interesting helpful sermon and find a handful of persons to listen.

There is much good in anything a minister may say.

Auditors should go in a receptive mood, and get something worthwhile.

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—
Seeking to learn more about the part Adam Richetti, captured pal of Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, had in the Kansas City Union Station massacre, United States District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan, today had telegraphed subpoenas to Wells-ville, O., for the appearance before the federal grand jury here of Chief of Police John H. Fultz and Mayor
William H. Daugherty.

Fultz and Daugherty are the only persons having talked with Richetti since his capture near Wellsville last week, even refusing federal authorities permission to interview the prisoner.

The government also demanded that Fultz and Daugherty bring with them a sub-machine gun dropped by Floyd and a .45 calibre pistol taken from Richetti, so that ballistic tests may be made to determine if the weapons were used in the massacre.

Give Work To 124 Men At Grove City

Two LWD Projects Under Way; Two Others Ready
To Be Started

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, Oct. 31.—With two LWD projects under way, and two others scheduled to start within a week, approximately 124 local men will be at work on federal aid jobs.
It is announced by local relief officials. Until last week, when 18 men started a relief project to build a sanitary sewer on Garden avenue, Grove City's unemployed had no work relief since early last August.
Work of removing coal from the borough mines in Memorial Park has been resumed, giving employment to 46 men for a period of 18 weeks. Cards have been received for 36 men to start the park project.
Thursday, with possibly 10 or 12 to be added later. A project to lay cobblestones on important alleys has also been approved, and is due to start next week, it is learned.
Relief offices list 195 Grove City men as unemployed, and the 124 who will be at work next week takes care of the quota, which is five-eighths of the total number out of work.

When present projects are exhausted, it is expected that others will be ready to go, in order to maintain employment throughout the winter. The school board has submitted three projects for improvement of playgrounds.

On Court-House Hill

An appeal from the decision of Justice of the Peace A. W. Thompson has been filed at the prothono-tary's office in the case of Julius Perschke against Norman Perschke.
Suit was brought for $142.23, alleged to be due for labor on a farm. The defendant denied that he owed that amount. Judgment was given by the justice for $128.48, from which an appeal is taken.

Under the will of the late Percy
C. Linsinbiger which has been probated at the register and recorder's office, his widow, Ida M. Linsinb-iger is to receive his personal property and rents from his real estate.

At her death the real estate is to go to two sons, Leroy and Norma.
Linsinbiger, a daughter, Emma G.
Conklin and step-daughter, Elsie Lamson, share and share alike. The Safe Deposit and Trust Company, now the Union Trust Company is named as executor.

The Board of Pardons has approved an application for the discharge of Joe Moracco, who was under parole from Huntingdon Industrial Reform School, having been sent to that institution from the Lawrence county court for robbery, in August 1931. He was paroled on June 24, 1932, and has since been employed near Lowellville, O. His record has been good, and Judge Hildebrand has approved the discharge.

Judge R. L. Hildebrand has approved an action of the road supervisors of Neshannock township in taking over a street in the More-wood plan of lots, the street to be known as Elizabeth Avenue. It extends from a point on the west line of Wilmington avenue west 520 feet to the center of Line road, in the same plot. The supervisors had agreed to accept and maintain the street, subject to the approval of the court.

Indications are that many of those who are applying for old age pensions will not be eligible, since they have other incomes, or have sons and daughters who are able to support them. Some, it has been found, are already receiving pensions from companies for whom they formerly worked. Such persons are not eligible under the old age pension act. To receive the pension a person 70 years of age must be without any income and have no near relatives able to support them. One of the nice questions which arises is that of the ability of children to support parents, when the children are burdened down with families of their own.

Will of the late Emma McCreary Smith of New Wilmington has been admitted to probate in the register and recorder's office. Disposition of certain stocks held by decedent is made to her three children, Genevieve Wright, Samuel M. Smith and Guila Mase, in equitable proportions.
A trust fund of $150 is set up for the upkeep of the family burying lot in Fair Oaks cemetery. The real estate is to be divided among the three children, or sold and the proceeds divided as desired by the heirs.

From an old resident of Enon, who,

was at the court house yesterday, it was learned that Enon has had somehow of a dramatic history.
During the stage coach days Enon was the over night stop for passengers going north from Pittsburgh.
It was also a mail center, the mail being sent from Enon to New Castle through Mt. Jackson and to Youngstown on the west. When the Pennsylvania railroad was built Enon was the furthest point north and west of Pittsburgh. Huge wood yards for supplying locomotives with fuel as well as railroad shops were built.
As the railroad went westward Enon became the junction for the traveling public of the north. As late as the beginning of the Civil War troops from Mercer and Lawrence counties, were marched to Enon to train for Pittsburgh and Washington.

Hope To Connect Adam Richetti With Massacre In Kansas City Station

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—Seeking to learn more about the part Adam Richetti, captured pal of Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, had in the Kansas City Union station massacre, United States District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan, today had telegraphed subpoenas to Wells, Mo., for the appearance before the federal grand jury here of Chief of Police John H. Fultz and Mayor William H. Daugherty.

Fultz and Daugherty are the only persons having talked with Richetti since his capture near Wellsville last week, even refusing federal authorities permission to interview the prisoner.

The government also demanded that Fultz and Daugherty bring them a sub-machine gun dropped by Floyd and a .45 calibre pistol taken from Richetti, so that ballistics tests may be made to determine if the weapons were used in the massacre.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. October 30: 11 arrests on charges as follows: violation of traffic regulations 7, and exceeding speed limit 4.

The police patrol will probably be delivered from the motor mechanics department to the police department about November 1, according to Chris Walker, mechanic. He has not yet had time to attach the fenders. The body is green in color.

Howard Phillips, superintendent of the department of collection and disposal of garbage, stated today that five trucks are in operation daily and that the department is operating normally.

Barring hunters from various parks of the city is not new here. All of the men who have served as director of city parks have sought to save all the game life in the parks. The move will meet with citizens approval.

There is a squirrel on North Mercer street between Grant street and Lincoln avenue which apparently has small respect for automobiles ascending and descending the hill. It takes its time regardless of the proximity of cars.

It is said in city hall circles that more policemen reside in Hillcrest avenue than any other street or avenue in the city. They are Sergeant M. J. Young, Patrolman Harry Flinner and U. C. Harper and Motorcycle Patrolman Ray Showalter.

Dr. W. L. Steen has ruled that no one can sell milk here without a license and to obtain the license one must have a dairy which has been inspected and approved by sanitary officials.

"Got your dance ticket?" is the query of policemen to their friends these days as they are preparing to stage their sixteenth annual Fraternal Order of Police dance. Thanksgiving night at the Cathedral. The profits go for their welfare.

Give Work To 124 Men At Grove City

Two LWD Projects Under Way; Two Others Ready
To Be Started

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 31.—With two LWD projects under way, and two others scheduled to start within a week, approximately 124 local men will be at work on federal aid jobs. It is announced by local relief officials. Until last week, when 18 men started a relief project to build a sanitary sewer on Garden avenue, Grove City's unemployed had no work relief since early last August. Work of removing coal from the borough mines in Memorial Park has been resumed, giving employment to 46 men for a period of 18 weeks. Cards have been received for 36 men to start the park project, Thursday, with possibly 10 or 12 to be added later. A project to lay cobblestones on important alleys has also been approved and is due to start next week. It is learned. Relief offices list 195 Grove City men as unemployed, and the 124 who will be at work next week takes care of the quota, which is five-eighths of the total number out of work.

When present projects are exhausted, it is expected that others will be ready to go, in order to maintain employment throughout the winter. The school board has submitted three projects for improvement of playgrounds.

Indications are that many of those who are applying for old age pensions will not be eligible, since they have other incomes, or have sons and daughters who are able to support them. Some, it has been found, are already receiving pensions from companies for whom they formerly worked. Such persons are not eligible under the old age pension act. To receive the pension a person 70 years of age must be without any income and have no near relatives able to support them. One of the nice questions which arises is that of the ability of children to support parents, when the children are burdened down with families of their own.

Will of the late Emma McCreary Smith of New Wilmington has been admitted to probate in the register and recorder's office. Disposition of certain stocks held by decedent is made to her three children, Genevieve Wright, Samuel M. Smith and Gula Mase, in equitable proportions. A trust fund of $150 is set up for the upkeep of the family burying lot in Fair Oaks cemetery. The real estate is to be divided among the three children, or sold and the proceeds divided as desired by the heirs.

From an old resident of Enon, who was at the court house yesterday. It was learned that Enon has had somewhat of a dramatic history. During the stage coach days Enon was the over night stop for passengers going north from Pittsburgh. It was also a mail center, the mail being sent from Enon to New Castle through Mt. Jackson and to Youngstown on the west. When the Pennsylvania railroad was built Enon was the furthest point north and west of Pittsburgh. Huge wood yards for supplying locomotives with fuel as well as railroad shops were built. As the railroad went westward Enon became the junction for the traveling public of the north. As late as the beginning of the Civil War troops from Mercer and Lawrence counties, were marched to Enon to embark for Pittsburgh and Washington.

GHOST PARTY AT O'NEILL RESIDENCE

Ghosts of all sizes, numbering forty in all, wended their ways to the home of Mrs. Ed. O'Neill, Butler road, Tuesday evening. For about an hour in the dimly lighted home every ghost was "mum" in order not to reveal his or her identity. Finally the silence was broken and when the guests unmasked it was found they were the members of the Queen Esther class of the Third U. P. church and their husbands and escorts.

The crowd was invited to the "house of horrors" in the cellar where screams and walls filled the air. A period of amusing stunts followed in which everyone took part. The games, in charge of Miss Kitty Hopper and Mrs. William McBride, caused roars of laughter.

Refreshments were the last thing of the evening's program but by no means the least, and much credit for this delicious item goes to Mrs. Gurney Rapson, Mrs. Wayne Shearer, Miss Laura Mooney and Mrs. Emerson Flansburg.

The house had been cleverly decorated according to the edicts of the season by Mrs. Ed. O'Neill, Mrs. Dave Jones, Mrs. John Kennehan and Mrs. Ralph Shaffer.

Mrs. Clair Powell, a new member, was present.

The next regular meeting will take place at the Shurtzoff home on West Garfield avenue Monday evening, November 5, with the Misses Grace and Eva Houk and Mrs. Robert Allhouse, of Youngstown, O., as hostesses.

Luncheon For Women
The members of the Women's Missionary society of the First Baptist church will have their annual Thanksgiving luncheon Thursday at 1 p. m. in the church dining room.

injurious to the morals of the people. He protested cautiously in his theses, and no one was supposed to be accepted bodily the opinions he expressed.

But the theses which the All Saints' Day was posted on the church door touched the heart and conscience more than the usual academic discussions publicized there. They became an instantaneous topic of discussion and debate. Every one wanted to read them; the university press could not print them fast enough. They were known throughout Germany in a fortnight. Within a month they were reverberating over western and southern Europe.

"Luther himself was staggered by the way they were received," says T. M. Lindsay in his life of Luther. Thus was Protestantism born.

Oct. 31, 1864—Nevada ("snow-clad") became the 36th state. Motto: All for Our Country. Flower: Sagebrush. Sixth largest in area, it is smallest state in population. But it is first in divorces and first in marriages per 1,000.

Oct. 31, 1870—Jack Davis banded his eyes, raised a gun and cut a Halloween caper that made him a place in American history. He performed the first train robbery on record at Verdi, Nev. Single-handed he held up the Overland Express, got $40,000.

Notable Nativities—Philo Remington, b. 1816. He developed the breech-loading rifle. He made his fortune in 1870 by arranging with the Navy Department to condemn and sell vast stores of arms which he bought for a song and resold to France for its war with Germany at several hundred per cent profit.

David Graham Phillips, b. 1867, novelist—The Rise and Fall of Susan Lennox—who introduced the bad girl in good literary company and was murdered. William Gibbs McAdoo, b. 1863, senator from California. Mrs. Julia Mood Peterkin, b. 1880, South Carolina novelist of national fame. Sir George Hubert Wilkins, b. 1888, newspaperman who acquired fame as an explorer.

Nelson Harding, b. 1879, Pulitzer prize winning editorial cartoonist. Basil Henry Liddell Hart, b. 1895, international critic of military science. France and Germany have hired this Briton to tell them what was wrong with their armies. Eugene B. Meyer, b. 1875, financier and newspaper publisher.

You're Wrong If You Believe—
That Darwin was an atheist.
That pythons and boa constrictors are poisonous.
That Dumas created the character D'Artagnan in "The Three Musketeers."

That there isn't such a thing as an automatic revolver.
Stuart Stair of the Volunteer Rifle and Pistol Club, Knoxville, Tenn., has got me on this. After it was stated here Oct. 11, that automatic revolvers do not exist, he presented proof that there is a "Webley-Fosbery" automatic revolver, the only one made. "This type of arm is rather scarce in this country, but is rather widely used in Europe."

The average person, however, wrongly refers to an automatic pistol as an automatic revolver, Mr. Stair says.

"The distinguishing characteristic of a pistol is that the chamber holding the cartridge is integral with the barrel. A revolver, on the other hand, has a separate barrel, and the cylinder has a number of chambers, the mechanism of the arm bringing them one at a time in line with the barrel."

The music of no other nation presents such a vast difference between the theoretical writings and the practical execution as does that of China.

Seven Members Of Faculty Dropped At Shippensburg

(International News Service)
SHIPPENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—Despite the protests of students, seven members of the faculty of Shippensburg State Teachers' College, including Dr. J. S. Heiges, who has been on the staff since 1908, will be dropped effective tomorrow because of the necessity for economy, Dr. Albert Lindsay Rowland, president, announced today.

Dr. Heiges, dean of instruction, and several of those dropped will remain at the school for the next several months serving voluntarily. Dr. Heiges will remain as an adviser to the president.

Dr. Rowland said it was necessary to reduce the teaching staff because of a $19,000 reduction in the school's budget.

GHOST PARTY AT O'NEILL RESIDENCE

Ghosts of all sizes, numbering forty in all, wended their ways to the home of Mrs. Ed. O'Neill, Butler road, Tuesday evening. For about an hour in the dimly lighted home every ghost was "mum" in order not to reveal his or her identity. Finally the silence was broken and when the guests unmasked it was found they were the members of the Queen Esther class of the Third U. P. church and their husbands and escorts.

The crowd was invited to the "house of horrors" in the cellar where screams and walls filled the air. A period of amusing stunts followed in which everyone took part. The games, in charge of Miss Kitty Hopper and Mrs. William McBride, caused roars of laughter.

Refreshments were the last thing of the evening's program but by no means the least, and much credit for this delicious item goes to Mrs. Curtis Rapson, Mrs. Wayne Shearer, Miss Laura Mooney and Mrs. Emerson Flansburg.

The house had been cleverly decorated according to the edicts of the season by Mrs. Ed. O'Neill, Mrs. Dave Jones, Mrs. John Kennehan and Mrs. Ralph Shaffer.

Mrs. Clair Powell, a new member, was present.

The next regular meeting will take place at the Sturtevant home on West Garfield avenue Monday evening, November 5, with the Misses Grace and Eva Houk and Mrs. Robert Allhouse, of Youngstown, O., as hostesses.

injurious to the morals of the people. He protested cautiously in his theses, and no one was supposed to be accepted bodily the opinions he expressed.

But the theses which the All Saints' Day was posted on the church door touched the heart and conscience more than the usual academic discussions publicized there. They became an instantaneous topic of discussion and debate. Every one wanted to read them; the university press could not print them fast enough. They were known throughout Germany in a fortnight. Within a month they were reverberating over western and southern Europe.

injurious to the morals of the people. He protested cautiously in his theses, and no one was supposed to be accepted bodily the opinions he expressed.

But the theses which the All Saints' Day saw posted on the church door touched the heart and conscience more than the usual academic discussions published there. They became an instantaneous topic of discussion and debate. Every one wanted to read them; the university press could not print them fast enough. They were known throughout Germany in a fortnight. Within a month they were reverberating over western and southern Europe.

"Luther himself was staggered by the way they were received," says T. M. Lindsay in his life of Luther. Thus was Protestantism born.

Oct. 31, 1864—Nevada ("snow-clad") became the 36th state. Motto: All for Our Country. Flower: Sagebrush. Sixth largest in area, it is smallest state in population. But it is first in divorces and first in marriages per 1,000.

Oct. 31, 1870—Jack Davis banded his eyes, raised a gun and cut a Halloween caper that made him a place in American history. He performed the first train robbery on record at Verdi, Nev. Single-handed he held up the Overland Express, got $40,000.

The average person, however, wrongly refers to an automatic pistol as an automatic revolver, Mr. Stair says.

"The distinguishing characteristic of a pistol is that the chamber holding the cartridge is integral with the barrel. A revolver, on the other hand, has a separate barrel, and the cylinder has a number of chambers, the mechanism of the arm bringing them one at a time in line with the barrel."

The music of no other nation presents such a vast difference between the theoretical writings and the practical execution as does that of China.

Seven Members Of Faculty Dropped At Shippensburg

(International News Service)
SHIPPENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—Despite the protests of students, seven members of the faculty of Shippensburg State Teachers' College, including Dr. J. S. Helges, who has been on the staff since 1908, will be dropped effective tomorrow because of the necessity for economy, Dr. Albert Lindsay Rowland, president, announced today.

Dr. Helges, dean of instruction, and several of those dropped will remain at the school for the next several months serving voluntarily. Dr. Helges will remain as an adviser to the president.

Dr. Rowland said it was necessary to reduce the teaching staff because of a $19,000 reduction in the school's budget.

Students recently signed a petition urging retention of some of those dropped.

The letter which stated "some members of the Ross family is going to be put six feet under the ground if I don't get out of jail" was signed by William J. Parcell, Uniontown, authorities stated. Police stated Parcell admitted Parcell went to work for his uncle last summer after losing his job with the government geological survey corps. The worthless check charges were filed against him in August.

Authorities said the letter to Elizabeth stated in part:
"If you think so much of your father and mother, you'd better tell them to try and get me turned loose from here. If not, there is going to be somebody dead in the Ross family when I get out of here, and that won't be very long. I am out for blood for the time I am doing here. I mean somebody should count the days they have to live. You tell them what I think as I am ready to die myself."

Boys Of Y. M. C. A. Enjoys Program

"Bums Convenshun" Is Staged
By 170 Boys At Y. Last Night

When 170 "boyish bums" get together there could be nothing else but a jolly, good time—and that's exactly what was had at the Y. M. C. A.'s first annual "bums convenshun" in the gayly-decorated boys' department rooms last night.

Boys who are Y members brought their best friends with them to celebrate all evening.

Robert Levine wore what judges ruled was the funniest costume: Lewis Berkheimer was the "smallest bum," and Robert Edmunds was

Serving as judges were Paul F. Butz, Paul Gilbert, Paul Huffman and Fred Fowler.

From early in the evening to late at night the mob of costumed youngsters frolicked to their hearts' content. There was entertainment all the while and a grand parade was staged just before the judges made decisions. Dike Blair displayed his magic tricks to the enjoyment of the boys. A photographer snapped the group's picture.

After the fun came delicious eats. Boys' Work Director Harry McClellan handled the evening arrangements, assisted by Paul Blackford, Paul Gilbert, Paul Huffman, Richard Warner, Fred McWilliams, Bill Caven, Robert Cochran, Herman Kitchen and others.

Working On Several Projects In City

RWD To Resume Grading Of Road To Oak Park Cemetery
Harry Hoskins, engineer for the city of New Castle, stated today that several projects in the city which are being constructed by RWD labor are under way and progress is being made. They are the jobs in Taylor street, the building of a wall in the Canyon street ravine and Cunningham park.

He said that grading of the road leading to Oak Park cemetery will be resumed and Councilman Davies added later that it is anticipated that work will be resumed on the Croton avenue hill wall.
About 15 trucks have registered with the city and are engaged in hauling. The city pays for the use of the trucks but the owners have agreed to turn this money back to the city on the taxes they owe. The city furnishes the gasoline and oil and the RWD pays the drivers 60 cents an hour.

Railroaders Still Pay On Retirement

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—In a letter accompanying pay checks to employees of the Pennsylvania railroad, W. W. Atterbury, president of the road, today outlined the company's stand with respect to the constitutionality of the Railroad Retirement Act.
After pointing out that a trial court on October 24 had held the act, which requires contributions from officers and employees alike toward a retirement pension fund, is unconstitutional, Atterbury said: "As the railroad retirement board has indicated its intention to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States, it seems essential, in order to preserve the rights of all parties, to continue deductions from pay checks."

Boys Of Y. M. C. A. Enjoys Program

By 170 Boys At Y. Last Night

When 170 "boyish bums" get together there could be nothing else but a jolly, good time—and that's exactly what was had at the Y. M. C. A.'s first annual "bums convenshun" in the gayly-decorated boys' department rooms last night.
Boys who are Y members brought their best friends with them to celebrate all evening.
Robert Levine wore what judges ruled was the funniest costume; Lewis Berkheimer was the "smaller bum," and Robert Edmunds was

Serving as judges were Paul F. Butz, Paul Gilbert, Paul Huffman and Fred Fowler.

From early in the evening to late at night the mob of costumed youngsters frolicked to their hearts' content. There was entertainment all the while and a grand parade was staged just before the judges made decisions. Dike Blair displayed his magic tricks to the enjoyment of the boys. A photographer snapped the group's picture.

After the fun came delicious eats. Boys' Work Director Harry McClellan handled the evening arrangements, assisted by Paul Blackford, Paul Gilbert, Paul Huffman, Richard Warner, Fred McWilliams, Bill Caven, Robert Cochran, Herman Kitchen and others.

At Huningue, a little village in upper Alsace, France, Germany and Switzerland meet.

Local Employees Of A. And P. Are Well Satisfied

Express Satisfaction Of Treatment From Company At District
Meeting

INTERFERENCE ON OUTSIDE RESENTED

Not only are the local employees of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company well satisfied with their present salaries and working conditions, but they also resent the interference of outside agencies in their affairs. It was stated in a resolution prepared at a meeting of district managers and employees which occurred at Grove City last evening. There were 500 employees present, representing 104 stores from five counties.

The meeting was called by J. S. Cameron, president of the Grove City district managers association, to discuss the attitude of the employees of the district on the recent strike controversy at Cleveland, O. Employees were present from Erie, Crawford, Venango, Mercer and Lawrence counties.

It was brought out at the meeting that the managers and clerks in Cleveland were apparently well satisfied with their salaries and working conditions, and had no desire to join any organization, as they had been a very happy A. and P. family, according to press reports.

Have Own Organization
It was also brought out that statements had been made that the company had violated Section 7A of the NRA Code. It was stated in the meeting that no one had ever questioned the right of the employees of the Great A. and P. Tea company to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.

The employees present expressed the opinion that "representatives of our own choosing," as expressed in the code, does not necessarily mean that the A. and P. employees must have someone do their talking for them.

They stated that they had their own organization, known as the Managers Benefit association, and when any grievance arises, it is presented to their employer through a committee appointed by the association.

It was also brought out at the meeting that the company has not reduced salaries in the last four years, when the depression has been at its worst. The fine spirit of loyalty which imbued the employees was no more clearly expressed than the statement made by Mrs. Williams, who has been employed in the Ellwood City store of the A. and P. Tea company for the past 19 years. Mrs. Williams said that in all the time she has been with the company, she has found her working conditions to have been pleasant, and that her salary had always been satisfactory.

Present Resolution

The same expression was forthcoming from many more of those in attendance at the meeting, and resulted in a resolution being presented which was signed by all managers and clerks, and will be presented to the general superintendent of the company, showing the appreciation of the employees of the district.

This resolution was as follows: We, the undersigned being members of the Managers Benefit association, managers and clerks of the stores operated by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. in Western Pennsylvania, wish to present to the public and to our company our views in regard to the recent strike controversy in Cleveland.

"We never at any time have had any trouble with our employers as to our salaries or working conditions, and the never has been any coercion on the part of the company as to collective bargaining called for in Section 7A of the NRA Code.

"We emphatically do not want any outside agency or organization to interfere with our positions. "We stand ready to serve the public and our company with the same loyalty as we have in the past.

"We do solemnly swear that the foregoing statements are true, and that our signatures as shown are true and genuine."

ALWAYS CONVENIENT

ROY W. HAZEN, Chairman,
Republican County Committee.
(POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT)

As a member he presented 13 bills, of which 11 were kept in committee; one passed the House, and an appropriation bill on which he was co-sponsor was passed. The bill that passed the House only would have taken away from ex-service men certain privileges they have under the Civil Service laws, in applying for municipal positions. The fact that the 11 bills were kept in committee was not because he was a Democrat. Some of the finest legislation passed was sponsored by Democratic members, among them Fitzgerald, Rhodes, Sarig, Flinchbaugh and others.

Eroe had one virtue in the General Assembly. He did what State Chairman David Lawrence of the Democratic party told him. Otherwise his service was a blank. Let's not handicap the district again by returning a Democrat to Harrisburg.

As a reason for re-election to the General Assembly, William J. Eroo cites his "record" in the session of 1933 and the special sessions of 1933 and 1934. Two years ago he talked of "lowering governmental costs." Let's see what he has done in the way of saving the state money. His compensation for these 26 weeks he served was $5,030. Of this $3,000 was for salary in the regular session, $150 was for postage, and $540 was for mileage. For the two special sessions he received $1,000 salary, $100 postage and $240 mileage.

The special session of 1934 lasted two legislative weeks, actually about six days, of about four hours each. Realizing the need for relief money, a bill was presented providing for the members to return the salary and accept only the postage and mileage. The bill was hurried to committee for "pickling," and one of the votes to "pickle" the bill was Eroo's. Again, when the Senate passed an amendment cutting the compensation down to $250, he voted against it. Still later a resolution was passed permitting the members to return any or all of the $500 to the state. Some gave it to charity, Eroo did neither. His plea of economy is hardly sustained by these figures.

As a member he presented 13 bills, of which 11 were kept in committee; one passed the House, and an appropriation bill on which he was co-sponsor was passed. The bill that passed the House only would have taken away from ex-service men certain privileges they have under the Civil Service laws, in applying for municipal positions. The women of the K. J. U. class of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, with their dolls, romped off to the home of Mrs. F. W. Guy, North Liberty street, Tuesday evening for a "kid party".

They played "house" and other children's games and at the close of the evening Mrs. Guy, assisted by her daughter Miss Margaret Guy, Mrs. Roy Spray and Mrs. John Sutton, served a tasty lunch.

Costumes worn by the "kids" created a roar of laughter and the party was one of the most enjoyable the class has ever had. Thirty-eight were in attendance.

GHOSTS REVEAL
Ghosts and goblins, clowns and jesters, twenty in all, were the guests of Miss Dorothy Chambers Tuesday night in the basement of the Sample home in Walnut Glen.

When unmasked it was found that the strangely costumed crowd of guests were really members of the senior Christian Endeavor society of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church.

Officers of the society acted as hosts and hostesses of the evening. Games were played indoors and out, with the serving of Halloween refreshments climaxing the most enjoyable evening.

MORE GEESSE
Another flock of wild geese was reported seen flying over seventh ward Tuesday.

State Secretary Of Labor Charlotte Carr Taking Hand In Beaver County Probe

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—Intent on getting all the facts "first hand," Charlotte E. Carr, state secretary of labor, was to come to Pittsburgh today to help direct the Beaver County Lunacy investigation.

The investigation is the outgrowth of the commitment of George Isoski, said to be an Aliquippa union organizer, whose release from the State Hospital for the Insane at Pottsville was ordered by Gov. Gifford Pinchot. Reports that his case was "framed up."

Miss Carr planned an early conference with Clinton Golden, mediator from her department, who has been in charge of the inquiry here thus far. A sweeping investigation of all commitments from Beaver county is being pushed by the state department of welfare to determine whether any action is warranted against authorities of that county.

Local Employees Of A. And P. Are Well Satisfied

Express Satisfaction Of Treatment From Company At District
Meeting

INTERFERENCE ON OUTSIDE RESENTED

Not only are the local employees of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company well satisfied with their present salaries and working conditions, but they also resent the interference of outside agencies in their affairs, it was stated in a resolution prepared at a meeting of district managers and employees which occurred at Grove City last evening. There were 500 employees present, representing 104 stores from five counties.

The meeting was called by J. S. Cameron, president of the Grove City district managers association, to discuss the attitude of the employees of the district on the recent strike controversy at Cleveland, O. Employees were present from Erie, Crawford, Venango, Mercer and Lawrence counties.

It was brought out at the meeting that the managers and clerks in Cleveland were apparently well satisfied with their salaries and working conditions, and had no desire to join any organization, as they had been a very happy A. and P. family, according to press reports.

Have Own Organization
It was also brought out that statements had been made that the company had violated Section 7A of the NRA Code. It was stated in the meeting that no one had ever questioned the right of the employees of the Great A. and P. Tea company to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.

The employees present expressed the opinion that "representatives of our own choosing," as expressed in the code, does not necessarily mean that the A. and P. employees must have someone do their talking for them.

They stated that they had their own organization, known as the Managers Benefit association, and when any grievance arises, it is presented to their employer through a committee appointed by the association.

It was also brought out at the meeting that the company has not reduced salaries in the last four years, when the depression has been at its worst. The fine spirit of loyalty which imbued the employees was no more clearly expressed than the statement made by Mrs. Williams, who has been employed in the Ellwood City store of the A. and P. Tea company for the past 19 years. Mrs. Williams said that in all the time she has been with the company, she has found her working conditions to have been pleasant, and that her salary had always been satisfactory.

Present Resolution
The same expression was forthcoming from many more of those in attendance at the meeting, and resulted in a resolution being presented which was signed by all managers and clerks, and will be presented to the general superintendent of the company, showing the appreciation of the employees of the district.

This resolution was as follows: "We, the undersigned members of the Managers Benefit association, managers and clerks of the stores operated by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. in Western Pennsylvania, wish to present to the public and to our company our views in regard to the recent strike controversy in Cleveland."

"We never at any time have had any trouble with our employers as to our salaries or working conditions, and there never has been any coercion on the part of the company as to collective bargaining called for in Section 7A of the NRA Code."

"We emphatically do not want any outside agency or organization to interfere with our positions."

"We stand ready to serve the public and our company with the same loyalty as we have in the past.

"We do solemnly swear that the foregoing statements are true, and that our signatures as shown are true and genuine."

The women of the K. J. U. class of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, with their dolls, romped off to the home of Mrs. F. W. Guy, North Liberty street, Tuesday evening for a "kid party."

They played "house" and other children's games and at the close of the evening Mrs. Guy, assisted by her daughter Miss Margaret Guy, Mrs. Roy Spray and Mrs. John Sutton, served a tasty lunch.

Costumes worn by the "kids" created a roar of laughter and the party was one of the most enjoyable the class has ever had. Thirty-eight were in attendance.

GHOSTS REVEL
Ghosts and goblins, clowns and jesters, twenty in all, were the guests of Miss Dorothy Chambers Tuesday night in the basement of the Sample home in Walnut Glen.

When unmasked it was found that the strangely costumed crowd of guests were really members of the senior Christian Endeavor society of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church.

MORE GEESSE
Another flock of wild geese was reported seen flying over seventh ward Tuesday.

State Secretary Of Labor Charlotte Carr Taking Hand In Beaver County Probe

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—Intent on getting all the facts "first hand," Charlotte E. Carr, state secretary of labor, was to come to Pittsburgh today to help direct the Beaver County Lunacy investigation.

The investigation is the outgrowth of the commitment of George Isoski, said to be an Aliquippa union organizer, whose release from the State Hospital for the Insane at Torrance was ordered by Gov. Gifford Pinchot on reports that his case was "framed up."

Miss Carr planned an early conference with Clinton Golden, mediator from her department, who has been in charge of the inquiry here thus far. A sweeping investigation of all commitments from Beaver county is being pushed by the state department of welfare to determine whether any action is warranted against authorities of that county.

Harry Hoskins, engineer for the city of New Castle, stated today that several projects in the city which are being constructed by RWD labor are under way and progress is being made. They are the jobs in Taylor street, the building of a wall in the Canyon street ravine and Cunningham park.
He said that grading of the road leading to Oak Park cemetery will be resumed and Councilman Davies added later that it is anticipated that work will be resumed on the Croton avenue hill wall.
About 15 trucks have registered with the city and are engaged in hauling. The city pays for the use of the trucks but the owners have agreed to turn this money back to the city on the taxes they owe. The city furnishes the gasoline and oil and the RWD pays the drivers 60 cents an hour.

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—In a letter accompanying pay checks to employees of the Pennsylvania railroad, W. W. Alsbury, president of the road, today outlined the company's stand with respect to the constitutionality of the Railroad Retirement Act.
After pointing out that a trial court on October 24 had held the act, which requires contributions from officers and employees alike to a retirement pension fund, is unconstitutional, Alsbury said: "As the railroad retirement board has indicated its intention to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States, it seems essential, in order to preserve the rights of all parties, to continue deductions from pay checks."

Boys Of Y. M. C. A. Enjoys Program

"Bums Convenshun" Is Staged By 170 Boys At Y. Last Night

When 170 "boyish bums" got together there could be nothing else but a jolly, good time—and that's exactly what was had at the Y. M. C. A.'s first annual "bums convenshun" in the gayly-decorated boys' department rooms last night.
Boys who are Y members brought their best friends with them to celebrate all evening.

Robert Levine wore what judges ruled was the funniest costume: Lewis Berkheimer was the "smallest bum," and Robert Edmunds was

Serving as judges were Paul F. Butz, Paul Gilbert, Paul Huffman and Fred Fowler.

From early in the evening to late at night, the mob of costumed youngsters frolicked to their hearts' content. There was entertainment all the while and a grand parade was staged just before the judges made decisions. Dike Blair displayed his magic tricks to the enjoyment of the boys. A photographer snapped the group's picture.

After the fun came delicious eats. Boys' Work Director Harry McClellan handled the evening arrangements, assisted by Paul Blackford, Paul Gilbert, Paul Huffman, Richard Warner, Fred McWilliams, Bill Caven, Robert Cochran, Herman Kitchen and others.

At Huningue, a little village in upper Alsace, France, Germany and Switzerland meet.

Survey Of Election Prospects In Nation Is Made By Political Experts

SURVEY IS MADE AMONG LEADERS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Democratic party appeared headed today toward a gain of from one to four senate seats in the elections a week away, according to a broad survey by International News Service.

Democratic claims to a net of eight senate seats and Republican claims of an even break seemed to be hopeless exaggerations to close observers. The survey was conducted among national and state leaders, familiar with the senatorial contests, including some of the candidates themselves.

It appeared the Democrats are certain to gain seats in Maryland, Missouri and New Jersey. They probably will gain another in Ohio. On the other hand, they appeared heading toward a loss in Nebraska and possibly another in New Mexico. Three contests were termed doubtful, the LaFollette toga in Wisconsin, the short term race in Montana and the battle in Wyoming.

Democratic victories were indicated in Arizona, Florida, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana (one seat), New Jersey, New York, Tennessee (2 seats), Texas, Virginia and Washington. Probable Democratic victories were indicated in Massachusetts, Nevada, Ohio and Utah.

Republicans To Win In Pennsylvania
Republican victories were credited in California, Connecticut, Delaware, Michigan, North Dakota, Pennsylvania and Vermont. Probable Republican victories were indicated in Indiana, Nebraska, New Mexico (2 seats), Rhode Island and West Virginia. A Republican won in Maine last month. In Minnesota, Shipstead, farmer-laborite, was given the edge.

No seat was credited a Democrat unless a responsible Republican privately conceded his election. Similarly, no Republican victory was conceded without a prominent Democrat confidentially admitting his election. In the doubtful contests, Republicans and Democrats privately insisted on their prospects of victory.

The indications today were:

Assured Winners

Arizona: Senator Henry F. Ashurst (D) incumbent, over George L. Burgess (R).

California: Senator Hiram W. Johnson (R-D), incumbent, over George S. Kirkpatrick (S).

Connecticut: Senator Frederick C. Walcott (R) incumbent, over Francis T. Maloney (D).

Delaware: Senator John G. Townsend, Jr. (R) incumbent, over Wilbur L. Adams (E).

Maryland: George W. Radcliffe (D) over Joseph I. France (R) to succeed Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough (R) not a candidate, Democratic gain.

Michigan: Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R) incumbent, over Frank A. Picard (D).

Mississippi: Theodore G. Bilbo (D) over no opposition to succeed Senator Hubert D. Stephens (D) defeated in primary.

Missouri: Harry S. Truman (D) over Senator Fletcher (R) incumbent, Democratic gain.

Montana: Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D) over George M. Borah (R) (Long term).

New Jersey: O. Harry Moore (D) over Senator Hamilton F. Kean (R) incumbent, Democratic gain.

New York: Senator Royal S. Copeland (D) incumbent, over E. Harold Cluett (R) and Henry C. Breckinridge, (Ind.).

North Dakota: Senator Lynn J. Frazier (R) incumbent, over Henry Holt (D).

AN OASIS of cheerfulness in this world of gloom is Leonid M. Tolokonski, Russian consul general in New York. Many things make him happy, including the fact that Russia can produce everything she needs, "excepting bananas and coffee."

She is growing fine grapefruit now, can worry along without bananas and drink tea instead of coffee, as she always has done. Russian coffee never was good, anyhow.

Mr. Tolokonski had noticed Gen. Mitchell's statement, printed here, that a Russian plane recently near 7,500 miles without taking on fuel, but says:

"We do not think so very much of that."

"We are more interested in the fact that we have the biggest airplane in the world, with nine engines, carrying a printing plant, nine editors and printers, flying over Russia, printing and distributing information about Russian plans."

RUSSIAN GOLD mines, equipped with modern machinery, produced one hundred and fifty million dollars in gold, and the entire external debt of Russia is only $200,000,000, not counting, of course, debts of the late czars, to Kerepki's childish American bankers and others, that Russia has forgotten as completely as France and England have forgotten their billions in "war debts of honor" to Uncle Sam.

Russia affirms that she has at present more airplanes than any other country in the world and will build many more, big, fast and powerful.

CONSUL GENERAL TOLOKONSKI, keen, amiable gentleman, recently arriving from the Russian embassy in London, anxious to see the United States and all other nations friendly with Russia, even asked for advice, which was given him as follows:

First, "Dig plenty of gold, and other countries will want to do business with you."

Second, "Build plenty of airships, and others will respect you."

RUSSIA, by the way, believes in using things made or growing in Russia, when possible.

When you drink wine at the Russian consulate, it will be a pleasing wine of a light Bordeaux type, the grapes grown in the Caucasus. If you like firewater you will get it in an innocent looking little glass of white liquid, fifty-four per cent alcoholic vodka. NEW YORKERS yesterday were excited about large sums in the Dublin Sweepstakes lottery. A 13-year-old school girl, a music teacher, a Brooklyn stenographer, prepared to be photographed by newspaper reporters.

The winner, Mr. Everett West, Indian colored janitor, took sudden wealth with some excitement when he learned that a ticket on which his wife had written "Unlucky Sue" had probably made him rich. Reporters quoted him:

"Burn down the house. I'm a monkey's hind leg, I'm a red hot roaster. Good luck has come my way."

IT WILL NOT take him long to cease janitor work, and not long for friends and financial advisers to start him on the hunt for another job, probably.

SAN FRANCISCO yesterday rejoiced in completion, after twenty years of work, of the great Hetch Hetchy project, a $100,000,000 undertaking that brings pure water one hundred and fifty miles from the high Sierras in Yosemite National Park.

A great budge is building over the beautiful Golden Gate that leads in from the Pacific Ocean, and soon San Francisco will be connected, by road, with the great city of Oakland, across the bay.

Plenty of energy in San Francisco.

CHARLES, alias "Pretty Boy," Floyd is buried, with twenty thousand at his funeral, men, women and children fainting in the jam.

"Elaborate blankets of carnations" and all sorts of wild flowers, piled on the tomb were taken away as souvenirs by the mob.

The clergyman could not quite say that, but did say:

"You can't tell when a lost soul is saved, and Floyd did try to change his life."

He is reported to have changed several other lives, drastically.

Twenty thousand gather at the funeral of an outlaw, killed by the national agents. An interesting incident in our "civilized history."

A REAL POET is a poet up to the last minute. In Jugo-Slavia, Janko Pejnovitch, Bohemian, was pressed by his creditors. Instead of going placidly through bankruptcy, Pejnovitch, poet of distinction, wrote a long poem, entitled, "Creditors, Wipe Clean the Slate, and drowned himself in the Sava river.

He was cheerful to the end, much interested in his poem.

IN JUGO-SLAVIA, Milka Pavlevitch poisoned seventeen people, killing seven. Those poisoned stood between her and the inheritance of a large estate. So she gave them a feast.

This would have been an "ordinary incident" in the day of the Borgias; now it is news.

Many Small Mines Are Being Worked

Butler-Mercer District Shows Unusual Activity In Small "Wagon" Mines

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 31.—Intensive activity is noted in the coal mining industry of the Butler-Mercer district, which centers about Grove City. More than 100 small "wagon" mines are included in the district, and many entries abandoned in former years have been re-opened, due to the demand for fuel and the higher prices which have prevailed for the past two years.

Many of the small mines are located on hard roads, where the entire production is hauled away and delivered to the consumers in trucks, sometimes to points 50 and 75 miles distant.

Coal mining was a major industry in this community for 30 years, but was almost entirely abandoned after the World War. Gradually, small mines have been re-opened until last fall more than 1500 men were employed in mines within a radius of 15 miles of Grove City. In the past year, following settlement of a strike last October, employment has increased and indications are that during the coming winter the industry will enjoy the best season since early in the present century.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh or if phlegm drops in your throat and you are troubled with catarrh of the bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome by many instances by the following treatment, which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from Eckert's or your druggist 1 ounce of Eucalypti (Eucalypti) Extract. Take this home and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Stir well. Take one spoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dizziness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucous dripping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there is no danger. The many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

How Democrats Aid Employment In Pennsylvania

Schnader Says Campaign Literature Was Printed Outside State

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 31.—William A. Schnader, Republican candidate for Governor, criticized the Democratic party for promising jobs to Pennsylvania unemployed and then sending out of the state to have printing done, while printers in this state were idle.

Schnader said "nobody can tell me where there is any doubt about the election of the entire Republican ticket." He criticized the Democrats for having their campaign literature printed outside the state while "they were going about promising a job for every man who wants work."

The main Democratic campaign document, he said, "a sheaf of lies about the candidates of the Republican ticket and about Pennsylvania" was printed in Cleveland, Ohio.

Gather Facts In Lindbergh Case

Prosecution Will Attempt To Pin Kidnaping On Hauptmann Alone

WITNESSES ARE BEING MOBILIZED

(International News Service).

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Evidence in possession of eighteen witnesses was being collected by New Jersey authorities today in an effort to prove that Bruno Richard Hauptmann kidnaped the Lindbergh baby without an accomplice.

Among witnesses who will take the stand when Hauptmann goes on trial in Flemington, N. J., on January 2, are several who will testify that the German carpenter was not working in the Majestic apartments on March 1, 1932, when the child was abducted.

This was disclosed by New Jersey's Attorney General, David T. Wilentz, and Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., of Hunterdon county.

Wilentz said no attempt would be made to show that the kidnaping was anything but a one-man job. He said:

"There is nothing in our case so far that leads to any other avenue than Hauptmann."

Meanwhile, James M. Fawcett, counsel for the defense, was building up the evidence by which he hopes to save his client from the electric chair.

He will contend that two days after the body of the Lindbergh baby was found, Isidor Fisch, furrier friend of Hauptmann, applied for a passport to Germany.

Fisch, a tubercular German, applied for a passport on May 14, 1932, Fawcett said. The baby's body had been found on May 12. Nevertheless, Fisch did not use the passport for more than a year. Then, in company with Henry Uhlig, a friend of Hauptmann, he went home to Leipzig and died there last spring.

The white "X" marks on the plate glass windows of New Castle's new postoffice on the diamond were vanishing today before the scrubbing cloths applied by workmen.

The "X" marks were placed on the windows when they were installed as a precaution against accidental breakage. The marks let construction men know glass has been installed.

CHARLES, alias "Pretty Boy" Floyd is buried with twenty thousand at his funeral, men, women and children fainting in the jam.

"Elaborate blankets of carnations" and all sorts of wild flowers, piled on the tomb, were taken away as souvenirs by the mob.

At the edge of the grave Floyd's mother, who all her life has been a good church worker, exclaimed:

"My boy never hurt anybody."

The clergyman could not quite say that, but did say:

"You can't tell when a lost soul is saved. And Floyd did try to change his life."

He is reported to have changed several other lives, drastically.

Twenty thousand gather at the funeral of an outlaw, killed by national agents. An interesting incident in our "civilized history."

A REAL POET is a poet up to the last minute. In Jugoslavica, Janko Pejnovitch, Bohemian, was pressed by his creditors. Instead of going placidly through bankruptcy, Pejnovitch, poet of distinction, wrote a long poem, entitled, "Creditors, Wipe Clean the Slate," and drowned himself in the Sava river.

He was cheerful to the end, much interested in his poem.

IN JUGO-SLAVIA, Milka Pavlevitch poisoned seventeen people, killing seven. Those poisoned stood between her and the inheritance of a large estate. So she gave them a feast.

This would have been an "ordinary incident" in the day of the Borgias; now it is news.

Red Cross Roll Call Will Be Inaugurated With Gathering At Elks Club

WORKERS WILL BE GUESTS OF CHAPTER

Chairman Julius Blaha of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, today announced the committee which will have charge of the arrangements for the dinner, when the 1934 Roll Call will be inaugurated, at the Elks club, Wednesday evening, November 7.

This committee will be composed of Mrs. David H. Kay, chairman; Mrs. J. C. McCready, Mrs. Kenneth McClaran, Mrs. David W. Ritchie, Mrs. J. S. Klammer and Mrs. O. P. Brown.

The roll call workers in the county will be the guests of the executive committee of the chapter on this occasion, when Dr. William DeKleine of Washington, D. C., medical director for the National Red Cross, will be the speaker.

Roll Call Chairman John C. Sylling and his assistant, Alex McCready, are marshalling their forces for the annual roll call, which opens November 11 and lasts through Thanksgiving Day, when the residents of the county outside the districts served by community chests will be given an opportunity to subscribe to the National Red Cross fund for carrying on their activities in the stricken areas throughout the nation.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 31.—William A. Schnader, Republican candidate for Governor, criticized the Democratic party for promising jobs to Pennsylvania, unemployed and then sending out of the state to have printing done, while printers in this state were idle.

Schnader said "nobody can tell me where there is any doubt about the election of the entire Republican ticket." He criticized the Democrats for having their campaign literature printed outside the state while "they were going about promising a job for every man who wants work."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 31.—Nine Westminster College students, employed under the Federal Emergency Relief Association, are making an educational survey for the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction in Lawrence county schools. William A. Johns, director of public relations, has charge of the survey group.

The study being made by the state department using FERA workers will be concerned with a sample test of 30,000 children in various sections of the state. Those being studied include two groups: pupils who were in the sixth grade in public schools in 1926-1927, and pupils in the same grade in 1928-1929.

Information being gathered with reference to school pupils include: identification of the individual, vocational and educational experiences, school record, social-economic background, individual and social traits.

School records form the basis for the study being made, but personal interviews and mail interviews augment the records in the school offices when necessary. The Westminster survey group has charge of this study in New Castle, Union township, Shenango township, and other Lawrence county towns.

Westminster students in the survey group include: Martha Theser, Pittsburgh; Alice McCrory, Cambridge, O.; Eunice Dickson, Roselle Park, N. J.; Martha Yoltan, Latrobe; Lillian Oelslager, Greensburg; Jane Holland, Bellevue; Eva Reid, Savannah, O.; Helen Simson, Volant; and Jeannette Powers, Canfield, O.

"The Enemy," Channing Pollock's well-known play, will be produced by Westminster College thespians on November 21 in the little theatre, Professor A. T. Cordray announces.

The cast chosen for the production includes: Jane Holland, Bellevue; McCrea Hazlett, Tarentum; Virginia McCown, Pittsburgh; Avalon LeMonte, Mt. Lebanon; Walter Biberich, New Castle; Thomas Kirby, Erie; James Goodchild, New Castle; and Comfort Spelman, Kent, Ohio.

Gather Facts In Lindbergh Case

WITNESSES ARE BEING MOBILIZED

(International News Service).
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Evidence in possession of eighteen witnesses was being collected by New Jersey authorities today in an effort to prove that Bruno Richard Hauptmann kidnaped the Lindbergh baby without an accomplice.

Among witnesses who will take the stand when Hauptmann goes on trial in Flemington, N. J., on January 2, are several who will testify that the German carpenter was not working in the Maletic apartments on March 1, 1932, when the child was abducted.

This was disclosed by New Jersey's Attorney General, David T. Wilentz, and Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., of Hunterdon county.

He will contend that two days after the body of the Lindbergh baby was found, Isidor Fisch, a friend of Hauptmann, applied for a passport to Germany.

Fisch, a tubercular German, applied for a passport on May 14, 1932. Fawcett said. The baby's body had been found on May 12. Nevertheless, Fisch did not use the passport for more than a year. Then, in company with Henry Uhlig, a friend of Hauptmann, he went home to Leipzig and died there last spring.

CLEAN P. O. WINDOWS

The white "X" marks on the plate glass windows of New Castle's new postoffice on the diamond were washing today before the scrubbing cloths applied by workmen.

Plan To Discuss Sewers Friday

Safety Director David O. Davies in speaking about the request of Union township that property owners be allowed to connect their sanitary sewers when built with the city's sanitary sewer system, said council would probably be in a position Friday to further discuss the problem. He said councilmen have discussed the proposition informally.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from Eckert's or your druggist 1 ounce of Parmitin (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh, and therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

Local Employees Of A. And P. Are Well Satisfied

Express Satisfaction Of Treatment From Company At District
Meeting

INTERFERENCE ON OUTSIDE RESENTED

Not only are the local employees of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company well satisfied with their present salaries and working conditions, but they also resent the interference of outside agencies in their affairs. It was stated in a resolution prepared at a meeting of district managers and employees which occurred at Grove City last evening. There were 500 employees present, representing 104 stores from five counties.

The meeting was called by J. S. Cameron, president of the Grove City district managers association, to discuss the attitude of the employees of the district on the recent strike controversy at Cleveland, O. Employees were present from Erie, Crawford, Venango, Mercer and Lawrence counties.

It was brought out at the meeting that the managers and clerks in Cleveland were apparently well satisfied with their salaries and working conditions, and had no desire to join any organization, as they had been a very happy A. and P. family, according to press reports.

Have Own Organization
It was also brought out that statements had been made that the company had violated Section 7A of the NRA Code. It was stated in the meeting that no one had ever questioned the right of the employees of the Great A. and P. Tea company to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.

The employees present expressed the opinion that "representatives of our own choosing," as expressed in the code, does not necessarily mean that the A. and P. employees must have someone do their talking for them.

They stated that they had their own organization, known as the Managers Benefit Association, and when any grievance arises, it is presented to their employer through a committee appointed by the association.

It was also brought out at the meeting that the company has not reduced salaries in the last four years, when the depression has been at its worst. The fine spirit of loyalty which imbued the employees was no more clearly expressed than the statement made by Mrs. Williams, who has been employed in the Ellwood City store of the A. and P. Tea company for the past 19 years. Mrs. Williams said that in all the time she has been with the company, she has found her working conditions to have been pleasant, and that her salary had always been satisfactory.

Present Resolution
The same expression was forth-coming from many more of those in attendance at the meeting, and resulted in a resolution being presented which was signed by all managers and clerks, and will be presented to the general superintendent of the company, showing the appreciation of the employees of the district.

This resolution was as follows:
"We, the undersigned being members of the Managers Benefit Association, managers and clerks of the stores operated by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. in Western Pennsylvania, wish to present to the public and to our company our views in regard to the recent strike controversy in Cleveland.

"We never at any time have had any trouble with our employers as to our salaries or working conditions, and there never has been any coercion on the part of the company as to collective bargaining called for in Section 7A of the NRA Code.

"We emphatically do not want any outside agency or organization to interfere with our positions.

"We stand ready to serve the pub-

Kid Party Is Tuesday Event

K. J. U. Members, In Children's Attire, Gather Last Night At Guy Home

The women of the K. J. U. class of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, with their dolls, romped off to the home of Mrs. F. W. Guy, North Liberty street, Tuesday evening for a "kid party."

They played "house" and other children's games and at the close of the evening Mrs. Guy, assisted by her daughter Miss Margaret Guy, Mrs. Roy Spray and Mrs. John Sutton, served a tasty lunch.

Costumes worn by the "kids" created a roar of laughter and the party was one of the most enjoyable the class has ever had. Thirty-eight were in attendance.

GHOSTS REVEL

Ghosts and goblins, clowns and jesters, twenty in all, were the guests of Miss Dorothy Chambers Tuesday night in the basement of the Sample home in Walnut Glen.

When unmasked it was found that the strangely costumed crowd of guests were really members of the senior Christian Endeavor society of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church.

HALLOWEEN PARTY
On Monday evening the juveniles of St. Margaret's were entertained at a Halloween party in the Lyceum hall. The evening was devoted to various games and contests. Prizes were won by John Thompson, Francis Carlin, John Prekopi, Jane Martin, Gloria Stritzinger, Margaret Prekopi, Marie Carlin, Shirley Carlin, Dorothy Stritzinger, Agnes Valley and Dorothy Evans. A luncheon was served and the activities were concluded at 8:30.

MORE GEESE
Another flock of wild geese was reported seen flying over seventh ward Tuesday.

Edwin M. McBride of the Mahoningtown post office states, however, that the sight of so many wild waterfowl had not seemed to speed up the sale of migratory bird stamps here. These dollar stamps are required by all hunters who wish to shoot waterfowl.

MORE FOOTBALL
The Pitt Panthers will play the Clayton Bears this evening. Wabash Bears will meet the Mahoning Wildcats at the E. and A. field Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

State Secretary Of Labor Charlotte Carr Taking Hand In Beaver County Probe

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31.—Intent on getting all the facts "first hand," Charlotte E. Carr, state secretary of labor, was to come to Pittsburgh today to help direct the Beaver County Lunacy investigation.

The investigation is the outgrowth of the commitment of George Isoski, said to be an Alliquippa union organizer, whose release from the State Hospital for the Insane at Torrance was ordered by Gov. Gifford Pinchot on reports that his case was "framed up."

Miss Carr planned an early conference with Clinton Golden, mediator from her department, who has been in charge of the inquiry here thus far. A sweeping investigation of all commitments from Beaver county is being pushed by the state department of welfare to determine whether any action is warranted against authorities of that county.

New Ken High May Surprise Local Eleven

New Castle May Have Hands Full Saturday With New Kensington

New Castle high school "Red Hurricane" football team may have a tough Saturday afternoon when Coach Carl Glock brings his New Kensington high team to Taggart stadium. Both schools are in the running for the Class AA championship. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Coach Glock has been preparing for New Castle ever since last year. The Pa. Newcastles went to the All-American City last year and set a highly touted New Ken high eleven and then went on to take the Class AA crown. That defeat still rankles in the New Ken high ranks. Coach Glock has not forgotten it.

Will Fight Hard

For the past two or three weeks New Kensington has scouted New Castle high and they know just what the New Castle team uses in the way of deception. Coach Glock is drilling his players on how to stop Fleming and Cox, the two boys who are making the New Castle team impressive this year in the offensive department.

Nothing short of a victory over New Castle will satisfy the New Kensington high coach, players and fans. To defeat New Castle is an honor that few high school teams can point to, and for that reason New Kensington high would like to join that select group.

Westminster Will Have Veteran Team Against Grove City Saturday

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—When Coach Bill Gibson's Westminster college football team faces the strong Grove City team at Grove City on Saturday, veterans will comprise the Titan starting lineup.

On the line, Bunny Austen, Etna, junior, and Dick Watt, Struthers, O., junior, will play at end. Lou Franklin, senior from Freeport, L., and Merrill straw, junior from Turtle Creek, will be at tackle. Either Bob Scarborough, senior from McDonald, O., or Don Helmick, junior from Uniontown, will play center. The guards will include Walt Young, Freeport, N. Y., senior, and Harold Bury, New Castle junior.

All these men but Helmick, who was out of college last year, saw action against Grove City in the game which the Grovers won 12-0 at New Castle last year. They believe that they have a 50-50 chance of defeating the Grovers, but that the contest will be one of the hardest fought of all on the schedule.

Grove City's unexpected defeat at Westminster came as a surprise to Titan followers, and the coaches and men realize that the Grovers will be out to make amends for their mistakes in Meadville. A large delegation of Westminster students will go to Grove City for the game.

Sacred Hearts Back In Field For Basketball

At a recent meeting of the Sacred Hearts, the Y. M. C. A. 1933-34 team, it was planned to put another fast foot team in the league this year. The Hearts completed a great record last year and hope to repeat this year.

The Sacred Heart players will represent the St. Vitus church in the league this season, according to an announcement from Rocco P. Viggiano, the energetic business manager.

The following will be on the Sacred Heart roster: V. Gallagher, P. Viggiano, T. Cooper, T. Gennock, N. Gennock, E. Cooper, Manning and a few others. Andy A. Venditto will act as coach. The Hearts will be sponsored by the Keystone A. C. of this city.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Merger Beasley, tutor of the Princeton University varsity tennis team, has made his selections of the first 10 tennis stars, and predicts that Wilmer Allison, Sid Wood will be sure of a berth on the American Davis Cup team of next year, and Don Budge and Gene Maek will in time make the team. His selections are ranked in order as follows: Wilmer Allison, Sid Wood, Lester Stofen, Berkeley Bell, Frank Shields, George M. Lott, Clifford Sutter, Don Budge and Bryant Grant.

Jor Cutrumba, quarterback for Duquesne, will not play in the Duquesne-West Virginia Wesleyan game Friday night. Joe Gates will replace him. Cutrumba has an injured back.

If Bill Terry goes through with his threat to put about 12 of the Giants on the auction block, he will find Casey Stengel, Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Wilson, managers of the Dodgers, Cards and Phillies, respectively, hanging around some place for the purpose of getting some Giants. Terry mentioned something about such a move in New Orleans recently, and the only players who would not be traded, it was reported, are Ott and Hubbell. It is not probable that Terry would attempt such a move.

Frederick Colclough, known in the sports world as Bob Senate, and a trainer for Stanley Ketchell, died at Miles City, Mont., from a heart ailment yesterday. He came to the United States from England and became a citizen of this country. In his earlier day he had been lightweight boxing champion of India and Africa.

Purdue Prepares For Chicago Tilt

(International News Service) LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 31.—Coach Noble Kizer sought more ground gaining power today from Purdue's Boilermakers who Saturday clash with the undefeated Chicago eleven. An intensive drill on offense marked last evening's practice. The Boilermakers, apparently, will be at top strength for Chicago.

New Ken High May Surprise Local Eleven

New Castle May Have Hands Full Saturday With New Kensington

New Castle high school "Red Hurricane" football team may have a tough Saturday afternoon when Coach Carl Glock brings his New Kensington high team to Taggart stadium. Both schools are in the running for the Class AA championship. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Coach Glock has been preparing for New Castle since last year. The Pa. Newicians went to the Aluminum City last year and upset a highly touted New Ken high eleven and then went on to take the Class AA crown. That defeat still rankles in the New Ken high ranks. Coach Glock has not forgotten it.

Will Fight Hard
For the past two or three weeks New Kensington has scouted New Castle high and they know just what the New Castle team uses in the way of deception. Coach Glock is drilling his players on how to stop Fleming and Cox, the two boys who are making the New Castle team impressive this year in the offensive department.

Nothing short of a victory over New Castle will satisfy the New Kensington high coach, players and fans. To defeat New Castle is an honor that few high school teams can point to, and for that reason New Kensington high would like to join that select group.

Westminster Will Have Veteran Team Against Grove City Saturday

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—When Coach Bill Gibbane's Westminster college football team faces the strong Grove City team at Grove City on Saturday, veterans will comprise the Titan starting lineup. Bob Arrowsmith, junior from Erie, will call signals. Ray Sweeney, senior halfback from Youngstown, will be at left half. Bob Laraway, sophomore from Erie, will be at right half. Bill Staples, Butler senior, will play fullback. On the line, Bunny Austen, Etna, junior, and Dick Watt, Struthers, O., junior, will play at end. Lou Franklin, senior from Freeport, L. I., and Merrill straw, junior from Turtle Creek, will be at tackle. Either Bob Scarbrough, senior from McDonald, O., or Don Helmick, junior from Uniontown, will play center. The guards will include Walt Young, Freeport, N. Y., senior, and Harold Burry, New Castle junior. All these men but Helmick, who was out of college last year, saw action against Grove City in the game which the Groves won 12-0 at New Castle last year. They believe that they have a 50-50 chance of defeating the Groves, but that the contest will be one of the hardest fought of all on the schedule. Grove City's unexpected defeat at the hands of Allegheny came as a surprise to Titan followers, and the coaches and men realize that the Groves will be out to make amends for their mistakes in Meadville. A large delegation of Westminster students will go to Grove City for the game.

Sacred Hearts Back In Field For Basketball

At a recent meeting of the Sacred Hearts, the Y. M. C. A. 1933-34 champions, it was planned to put another first floor team in the league this year. The Hearts compiled a great record last year and hope to repeat this year.

The Sacred Heart players will represent the St. Vitus church in the league this season, according to an announcement from Rocco P. Viggiano, the energetic business manager.

The following will be on the Sacred Heart roster: V. Gallagher, F. Viggiano, T. Cooper, T. Gennock, N. Gennock, B. Cooper, Mancine and a few others. Andy A. Venditto will act as coach. The Hearts will be sponsored by the Keystone A. C. of this city.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Mercer Beasley, tutor of the Princeton University varsity tennis team, has made his selections of the first 10 tennis stars, and predicts that Wilmer Allison, Sid Wood will be sure of a berth on the American Davis Cup team of next year, and Don Budge and Gene Mako will in time make the team. His selections are ranked in order as follows: Wilmer Allison, Sid Wood, Lester Stofen, Berkeley Bell, Frank Shields, George M. Lott, Clifford Sutter, Don Budge and Bryant Grant.

Jor Cutroma, quarterback for Duquesne, will not play in the Duquesne-West Virginia Wesleyan game Friday night. Joe Gates will replace him. Cutroma has an injured back.

If Bill Terry goes through with his threat to put about 12 of the Giants on the auction block he will find Casey Stengel, Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Wilson, managers of the Dodgers, Cards and Phillies, respectively, hanging around some Giants. Terry mentioned something about such a move in New Orleans recently, and the only players who would not be traded, it was reported, are Ott and Hubbell. It is not probable that Terry would attempt such a move.

Frederick Colclough, known in the sports world as Bob Senate, and a trainer for Stanley Ketchel, died at Miles City, Mont., from a heart ailment yesterday. He came to the United States from England and became a citizen of this country. In his earlier day he had been lightweight boxing champion of India and Africa.

Purdue Prepares For Chicago Tilt

(International News Service)
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 31.—Coach Noble Kizer sought more ground gaining power today from Purdue's Boilermakers who Saturday clash with the undefeated Chicago elevated. An intensive drill on offense marked last evening's practice. The Boilermakers apparently will be at top strength for Chicago.

FORECAST REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Senator Reed Is Seen Sure Winner

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1934, By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Democratic party appeared headed today toward a gain of from one to four senate seats in the election, according to a board survey by International News Service.

Democratic claims to a net of eight senate seats and Republican claims of an even break seemed to be hopeless exaggerations to close observers. The survey was conducted among national and state leaders, familiar with the senatorial contests, including some of the candidates themselves.

It appeared the Democrats are certain to gain seats in Maryland, Missouri and New Jersey. They probably will gain another in Ohio. On the other hand, they appeared heading toward a loss in Nebraska and possibly another in New Mexico. Three contests were termed doubtful, the LaFollette toga in Wisconsin, the short term race in Montana and the battle in Wyoming.

Democratic victories were indicated in Arizona, Florida, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana (one seat), New Jersey, New York, Tennessee (2 seats), Texas, Virginia and Washington. Probable Democratic victories were indicated in Massachusetts, Nevada, Ohio and Utah. Republicans to win in Pennsylvania.

Republican victories were credited in California, Connecticut, Delaware, Michigan, North Dakota, Pennsylvania and Vermont. Probable Republican victories were indicated in Indiana, Nebraska, New Mexico (2 seats), Rhode Island and West Virginia. A Republican won in Maine last month. In Minnesota, Shipstead, farmer-laborite, was given the edge.

No seat was credited a Democrat unless a responsible Republican privately conceded his election. Similarly, no Republican victory was conceded without a prominent Democrat confidentially admitting his election. In the doubtful contests, Republicans and Democrats privately insisted on their prospects of victory.

One Man Is Cheerful.

Why Revive Sparta?

Lottery Joy, Unconfined.

San Francisco's Great Day.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

AN OASIS of cheerfulness in this world of gloom is Leonard M. Tolokonnikoff, Russian consul general in New York. Many things make him happy, including the fact that Russia can produce everything she needs, "excepting bananas and coffee."

She is growing fine grapefruit now, can worry along without bananas and drink tea instead of coffee, as she always has done. Russian coffee never was good, anyhow.

Mr. Tolokonnikoff had noticed Gen. Mitchell's statement, printed here, that a Russian plane recently flew 7,500 miles without taking on fuel, but says:

"We do not think so very much of that."

"We are more interested in the fact that we have the biggest airplane in the world, with nine engines, carrying a printing plant, nine editors and printers, flying over Russia, printing and distributing information about Russian plans."

RUSSIAN GOLD mines, equipped with modern machinery, produced one hundred and fifty million dollars in gold, and the entire external debt of Russia is only $200,000,000, not counting of course, debts of the late czar, to Kerensky's chidist.

American bankers and others, that Russia has forgotten as completely as France and England have forgotten their billions in "war debts of honor" to Uncle Sam.

Russia affirms that she has at present more airplanes than any other country in the world and will build many more, big, fast and powerful.

CONSUL GENERAL TOLOKONNIKOFF, keen, amiable gentleman, recently arriving from the Russian embassy in London, anxious to see the United States and all other nations friendly with Russia, even asked for advice, which was given him as follows:

First, "Dig plenty of gold, and other countries will want to do business with you."

Second, "Build plenty of airships, and others will respect you."

RUSSIA, by the way, believes in using things made or growing in Russia, when possible.

When you drink wine at the Russian consulate, it will be a pleasing wine of a light Bordeaux type, the grapes grown in the Caucasus. If you like firewater you will get it in an innocent looking little glass of white liquid, fifty-four per cent alcoholic vodka. That goes with caviar, the separate sturgeon eggs nearly as big as Mrs. Belmont's pearls.

ROME REPORTS that Mussolini determined to make Italy a really militant country, ready to fight anybody at the drop of any hat, plans a "new Italy" with the motto:

"Back to the glory of the Caesars. A revival of Sparta."

All right about the Caesars, but Sparta did not work out well. Where is Sparta now? Where is the ancient glory?

Fighting will be done hereafter by scientists, chemists with poisonous and explosive gasses, engineers with fast planes, deadly air torpedoes. Fighting will be in the air and under water. No need to make a whole nation parade and drill.

NEW YORKERS yesterday were excited about large sums in the Dublin Sweepstakes lottery. A 13-year-old school girl, a music teacher, a Brooklyn photographer prepared to be photographed by newspaper reporters.

One winner, Mr. Everett West, Indian colored janitor, took sudden wealth with some excitement when he learned that a ticket on which his wife had written "Unlucky Sue" had probably made him rich. Reporters quoted him:

"I'm in the house. I'm a money's kind of guy. I'm a hot roaster. Good luck has come my way."

IT WILL NOT take him long to cease janitor work, and not long for friends and financial advisers to start him on the hunt for another job, probably.

SAN FRANCISCO yesterday rejoiced in completion, after twenty years of work, of the great Hetch Hetchy project, a $100,000,000 undertaking that brings pure water to the city and fifty miles from the high Sierras in Yosemite National Park.

A great bridge is building over the beautiful Golden Gate that leads in from the Pacific Ocean, and soon San Francisco will be connected, by road, with the great city of Oakland, across the bay.

Plenty of energy in San Francisco.

CHARLES, alias "Pretty Boy", Floyd is buried, with twenty thousand at his funeral, men, women and children fainting in the jam.

"Elaborate blankets of carnations" and all sorts of wild flowers, piled on the casket, were taken away as souvenirs by the mob.

The clergyman could not quite say that, but did say:

"You can't tell when a lost soul is saved. Al Floyd did try to change his life."

He is reported to have changed several other lives, drastically.

Twenty thousand gathered at the funeral of an outlaw, killed by national agents. An interesting incident in our "civilized history."

A REAL POET is a poet up to the last minute. In Jugoslavina, Janko Pejnovitch, Bohemian, was pressed by his creditors. Instead of going placidly through bankruptcy, Pejnovitch, poet of distinction, wrote a long poem, entitled, "Creditors, Wipe Clean the Slate," and drowned himself in the Sava river. He was cheerful to the end, much interested in his poem.

IN JUGO-SLAVIA, Milka Pavlevitch poisoned seventeen people, killing seven. Those poisoned stood between her and the inheritance of a large estate. So she gave them a feast.

This would have been an "ordinary incident" in the day of the Borgias; now it is news.

Butler-Mercer District Shows Unusual Activity In Small "Wagon" Mines

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 31.—Intensive activity is noted in the coal mining industry of the Butler-Mercer district, which centers about Grove City. More than 100 small "wagon" mines are included in the district, and many entries abandoned in former years have been re-opened, due to the demand for fuel and the higher prices which have prevailed for the past two years.

Many of the small mines are located on hard roads, where the entire production is hauled away and delivered to the consumers in trucks, sometimes to points 50 and 75 miles distant.

Coal mining was a major industry in this community for 30 years, but was almost entirely abandoned after the World War. Gradually, small mines have been re-opened until last fall more than 1500 men were employed in mines within a radius of 15 miles of Grove City. In the past year, following settlement of a strike last October, employment has increased and indications are that during the coming winter the industry will enjoy the best season since early in the present century.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND BELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat, and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from Dr. J. C. Perelman, 205 Wallace Bldg., a box of Earsal (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dizziness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dripping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of ear catarrhs are caused by catarrh and they must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

How Democrats Aid Employment In Pennsylvania

Schnader Says Campaign Literature Was Printed Outside State

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 31.—William A. Schnader, Republican candidate for Governor, criticized the Democratic party for promising jobs to Pennsylvania unemployed and then sending out of the state to have printing done, while printers in this state were idle.

Schnader said "nobody can tell me where there is any doubt about the election of the entire Republican ticket." He criticized the Democrats for having their campaign literature printed outside the state while "they were going about promising a job for every man who wants work."

The main Democratic campaign document, he said, "a sheetful of lies about the candidates of the Republican ticket and about Pennsylvania, was printed in Cleveland, Ohio."

College Students Making Survey

Educational Survey In Lawrence County Schools Is Now In Progress

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—Nine Westminster College students, employed under the Federal Emergency Relief Association, are making an educational survey for the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction in Lawrence county schools. William A. Johns, director of public relations, has charge of the survey group.

The study being made by the state department using FERA workers will be concerned with a sample test of 30,000 children in various sections of the state. Those being studied include two groups: pupils who were in the sixth grade in public schools in 1926-1927, and pupils in the same grade in 1928-1929.

Information being gathered with reference to school pupils include: identification of the individual, vocational and educational experiences, school record, social-economic background, individual and social traits.

School records form the basis for the study being made, but personal interviews and mail interviews augment the records in the school of places when necessary. The Westminster survey group has charge of this study in New Castle, Union township, Sharpsburg, and other Lawrence county towns.

Westminster students in the survey group include:

Martha Ilsen, Pittsburgh; Alice McCrory, Cambridge, O.; Eunice Dickson, Roselle Park, N. J.; Martha Yoltin, Latrobe; Lillian Ocklager, Greensburg; Jane Holland, Bellefonte; Eva Reid, Savannah, O.; Helen Simmon, Volant; and Jeannette Powers, Canfield, O.

CASTS ARE NAMED

"The Enemy," Channing Pollock's well-known play, will be produced by Westminster College thespians on November 21 in the little theatre, Professor A. T. Cordry announces.

Gather Facts In Lindbergh Case

WITNESSES ARE BEING MOBILIZED

(International News Service.) NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Evidence in possession of eighteen witnesses was being collected by New Jersey authorities today in an effort to prove that Bruno Richard Hauptmann kidnaped the Lindbergh baby without an accomplice.

Among witnesses who will take the stand when Hauptmann goes on trial in Flemington, N. J., on January 2, are several who will testify that the German carpenter was not working in the Maletsk apartment on March 1, 1932, when the child was abducted.

This was disclosed by New Jersey's Attorney General, David T. Wilentz, and Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., of Hunterdon county.

Witlentz said no attempt would be made to show that the kidnaping was anything but a one-man job. He said:

"There is nothing in our case so far that leads to any other avenue than Hauptmann."

Meanwhile, James M. Fawcett, counsel for the defense, was building up the evidence by which he hopes to save his client from the electric chair.

He will contend that two days after the body of the Lindbergh baby was found, Isidor Fisch, a friend of Hauptmann, applied for a passport to Germany.

Fisch, a tubercular German, applied for a passport on May 14, 1932. Fawcett said. The baby's body had been found on May 12. Nevertheless, Fisch did not use the passport for more than a year. Then, in company with Henry Uhlig, a friend of Hauptmann, he went home to Leipzig and died there last spring.

CLEAN P. O. WINDOWS

The white "X" marks on the plate glass windows of New Castle's new postoffice on the diamond were vanishing today before the scrubbing cloths applied by workmen.

The "X" marks were placed on the windows when they were installed as a precaution against accidental breaking. The marks let construction men know glass has been installed.

Protest Slash In Iron Duties

American Iron and Steel Institute Says Rates
From Belgium Will Affect Industry

AGAINST ANY CUT ON IMPORTS

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Formal protest was made Tuesday by the American Iron & Steel Institute to the United States Tariff Commission against the lowering of duties on iron and steel from Belgium, on the ground that any reduction "would adversely and seriously affect the steel industry in the United States."

The institute's statement authorized by its board of directors and signed by Walter S. Towser, executive secretary, protests against any reduction in import duties on Belgian products under trade reciprocity agreements now under negotiations in Washington. Through the "most-favored-nation" treaties that have been concluded by the United States in recent years, any change in the Belgian duties would apply to most other European steel producing countries.

"The present basic rate of wages for common labor in the steel industry is 47 cents an hour, while the average hourly wages actually paid in August, 1934, under the steel code was 68 cents an hour. If all employees, including salary and wage earners are included, the average actually paid was 72 cents an hour.
According to the best information available here, the highest wage for common labor in any European steel-making country does not exceed 30 cents an hour."

Pinchot Accuses Dr. Reynolds Of 'Spreading Lies'

State Executive Says Former Member Of State Milk Control Talks Out Of Turn

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—Dr. Howard Reynolds, former member of the milk control board, today was accused by Gov. Gifford Pinchot of "spreading malicious falsehoods" concerning the work of the board.
The accusation was leveled in the executive's weekly newspaper chat with his constituents in which he summarized the work the milk board has done in the eight months of its existence and praised its accomplishments.

Speaking of Dr. Reynolds, who resigned from the board at Governor Pinchot's request, the executive said:
"When one of my appointees showed that his actions were spasmodic, ill-considered and injudicial, I did not hesitate to ask for his resignation. The fact that he is now spreading malicious falsehoods bears out my conclusions as to his unfitness to hold the office from which he was separated."

The governor said the board had made "some mistakes, but not many, and recently very few indeed." His work, he added merited a "well done!"
from the dairy farmers of the state.

GIRL SCOUTS

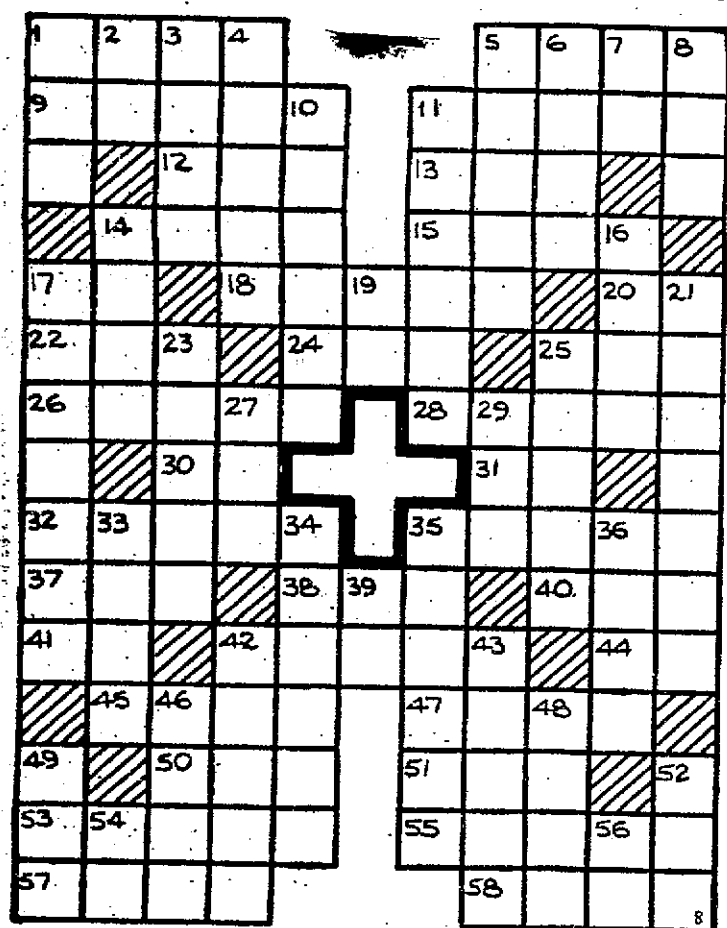

HALLOWEEN FETE
A delightful Halloween party was a Tuesday night event at the home of Mrs. Ruth Ferver, Lincoln avenue, with the Cardinal Troop of Girl Scouts No. 7, as the guests.
Special guests were the mothers of the girls.

The recreation room of Mrs. Ferver's home was prettily arranged for the affair and the girls appeared in clever make-ups. After guessing who was who, they played games under the direction of Mrs. Ferver, Miss Mary Grimes and Miss Olive Webb. Prizes went to Mrs. Ramsey, Betty Farmer and De Etta Cartwright.

A three act play, "The King's Lunch," was presented, followed by shadowgraphs by Floy Ramsey and Maurine Smith. Delicious refreshments were served.

New Ken High May Surprise Local Eleven

New Castle May Have Hands Full Saturday With New Kensington

New Castle high school "Red Hurricane" football team may have a tough Saturday afternoon when Coach Carl Glock brings his New Kensington high team to Taggart stadium. Both schools are in the running for the Class AA championship. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Coach Glock has been preparing for New Castle ever since last year. The Pa. Newicians went to the Aluminum City last year and upset a highly touted New Ken high eleven and then went on to take the Class AA crown. That defeat still rankles in the New Ken high ranks. Coach Glock has not forgotten it.

Will Fight Hard
For the past two or three weeks New Kensington has scouted New Castle high and they know just what the New Castle team uses in the way of deception. Coach Glock is drilling his players on how to stop Fleming and Cox, the two boys who are making the New Castle team impressive this year in the offensive department.

Nothing short of a victory over New Castle will satisfy the New Kensington high coach, players and fans. To defeat New Castle is an honor that few high school teams can point to, and for that reason New Kensington high would like to join that select group.

Westminster Will Have Veteran Team Against Grove City Saturday

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 31.—When Coach Bill Gilbane's Westminster college football team faces the strong Grove City team at Grove City on Saturday, veterans will comprise the Titan starting lineup.

On the line, Bunny Austen, Etna, junior, and Dick Watt, Struthers, O., junior, will play at end. Lou Franklin, senior from Freeport, L. I., and Merrill Clark, junior from Turtle Creek, will be at tackle. Either Bob Scarborough, senior from McDonald, O., or Don Helmick, junior from Uniontown, will play center.

The guards will include Walt Young, Freeport, N. Y., senior, and Harold Burry, New Castle junior. All these men but Helmick, who was out of college last year, saw action against Grove City in the game which the Grovers won 12-0 at New Castle last year. They believe that they have a 50-50 chance of defeating the Grovers, but that the contest will be one of the hardest fought of all on the schedule.

Grove City's unexpected defeat at the hands of Allegheny came as a surprise to Titan followers, and the coaches and men realize that the Grovers will be out to make amends for their mistakes in Meadville. A large delegation of Westminster students will go to Grove City for the game.

Grid Announcer Draws Attack

Wires To Microphone Will Be Cut If Announcer Is Not Changed Pennsylvania Says

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—Unless the present football announcer is supplanted by another one before the Lafayette-Pennsylvania game here next Saturday, microphone wires will be cut, the Pennsylvania student newspaper of University of Pennsylvania, declared Tuesday in an editorial comment.

Under a letter signed by a 1933 graduate whose name was not revealed, Joseph W. Carnwarth, editor-in-chief, asserted:

"If we cannot have the announcer changed, we will see to it that the microphone wires are cut next Saturday."

The man who has described previous grid games here this fall from Franklin field was branded as "semi-literate" in the letter, and was accused of pronouncing "Pennsylvania" correctly, as well as using "sloppy speech" and "vile grammar."

J. Howard Berry, former Pennsylvania gridiron star, and Joseph La Brum, the university's sports publicity director, were later disclosed as the announcers who handled the microphone at the games. Both declined to comment, as did Leroy Mercer, dean of the department of athletics.

Protest Slash In Iron Duties

American Iron And Steel Institute Says Rates From Belgium Will Affect Industry

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Formal protest was made Tuesday by the American Iron & Steel Institute to the United States Tariff Commission against the lowering of duties on iron and steel from Belgium, on the ground that any reduction "would adversely and seriously affect the steel industry in the United States."

The institute's statement authorized by its board of directors and signed by Walter S. Tower, executive secretary, protests against any reduction in import duties on Belgian products under trade reciprocity agreements now under negotiations in Washington. Through the "most-favored-nation" treaties that have been concluded by the United States in recent years, any change in the Belgian duties would apply to most other European steel producing countries.

"The present basic rate of wages for common labor in the steel industry is 47 cents an hour, while the average hourly wages actually paid in August, 1934, under the steel code was 68 cents an hour. If all employees, including salary and wage earners are included, the average actually paid was 72 cents an hour. According to the best information available here, the highest wage for common labor in any European steel-making country does not exceed 30 cents an hour."

Pinchot Accuses Dr. Reynolds Of 'Spreading Lies'

State Executive Says Former Member Of State Milk Control Talks Out Of Turn

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—Dr. Howard Reynolds, former member of the milk control board, today was accused by Gov. Gifford Pinchot of "spreading malicious falsehoods" concerning the work of the board.

The accusation was leveled in the executive's weekly newspaper chat with his constituents in which he summarized the work the milk board has done in the eight months of its existence and praised its accomplishments.

Speaking of Dr. Reynolds, who resigned from the board at Governor Pinchot's request, the executive said: "When one of my appointees showed that his actions were spasmodic, ill-considered and injudicial, I did not hesitate to ask for his resignation. The fact that he is now spreading malicious falsehoods bears out my conclusions as to his unfitness to hold the office from which he was separated."

The governor said the board had made "some mistakes, but not many, and recently very few indeed." Its work, he added, merited a "well done" from the dairy farmers of the state.

GIRL SCOUTS

HALLOWEEN FETE

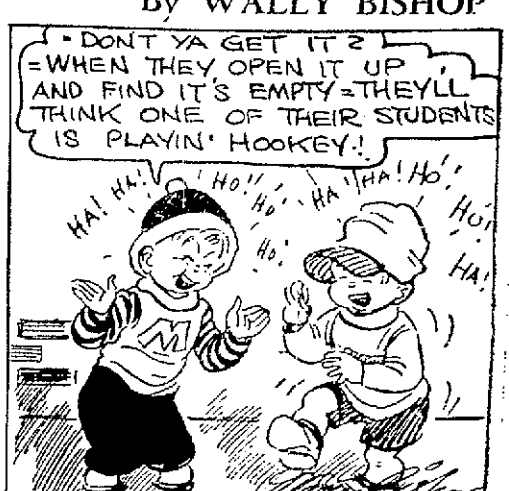

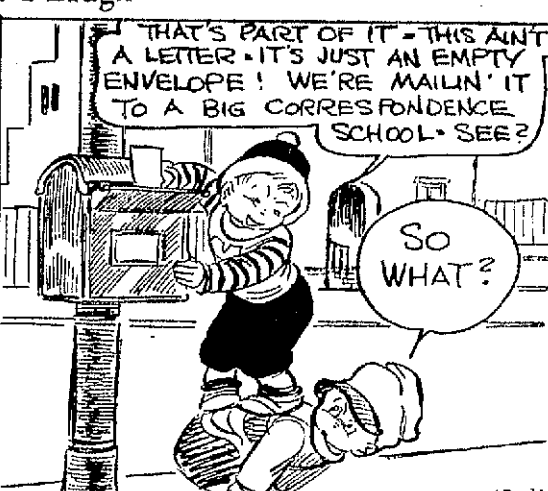

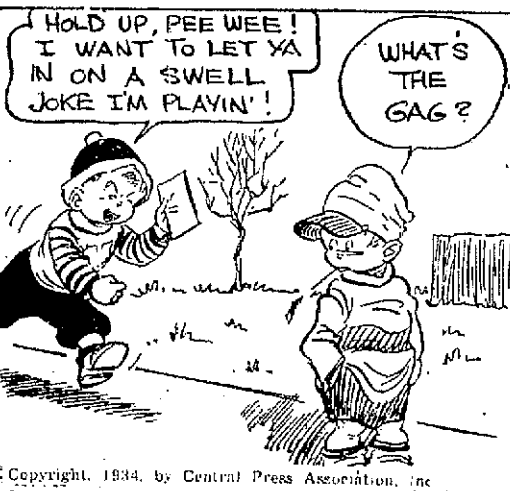

A delightful Halloween party was a Tuesday night event at the home of Mrs. Ruth Ferver, Lincoln avenue, with the Cardinal troop of Girl Scouts No. 7, as the guests. Special guests were the mothers of the girls.

The recreation room of Mrs. Ferver's home was prettily arranged for the affair and the girls appeared in clever make-ups. After guessing who was who, they played games under the direction of Mrs. Ferver, Miss Mary Grimes and Miss Olive Webb. Prizes went to Mrs. Ramsey, Betty Farmer and De Etta Cartwright.

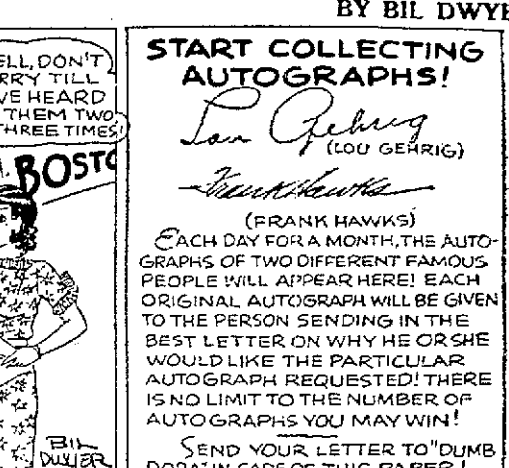

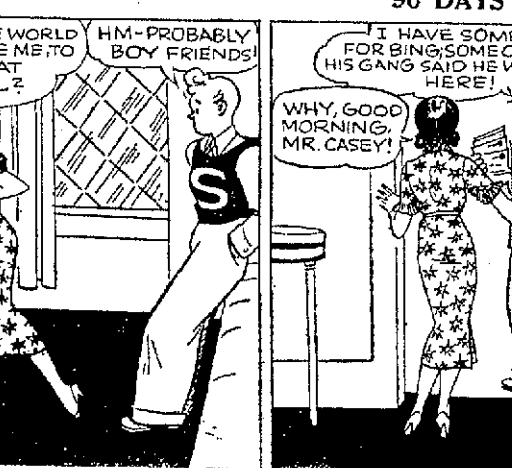

Three act play, "The King's Lunch," was presented, followed by shadowgraphs by Flory Ramsey and Maurine Smith. Delicious refreshments were served.

Market Winds Up Month Of October Still In Doldrums, Activity
Is Low

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The stock market today wound up October displaying a firm tone but still in the doldrums as far as price movements and activity were concerned.

A better trend in the news was of little influence. The steel trade reviews told of a gain in operations and better prospects for the industry. The week's power output hit the highest level in nearly four years. The A. & P. strike was near a settlement.

The response to this speculatively was a hardening in prices but gains were small.

U. S. Steel common and preferred were higher, indicating the food earnings report for the quarter had been discontinued. Other steel shares were firm.

Utility stocks ignored the bullish power figures and remained in the same rut they have occupied for months.

Rail shares edged forward fractionally but speculative interest in the group was dampened by the traffic decline last week.

A few individual issues went ahead. Gillette hit a new 1934 high by a fraction. Crown Cork & Seal was higher. DuPont was up as much as a point at one time. On the other hand, Penick & Ford and Universal Leaf Tobacco, yesterday's features, quieted down.

Oil shares worked higher in response to the improvement in industry situation in the last few days and the hope that the demoralized price situation would be stabilized before the week was out.

Johns Manville continued to get the pace for the building group, ruling around a point higher. A flurry of buying in the mail order and farm shares brought general gains with Case Thrashing up a point at one time.

Liquor shares edged forward but dealings were light. The merchandising division was steady. Food shares were neglected with National Biscuit heavy.

California shares improved further. Standard Oil of California reaching the best price on the move. Outside markets provided no speculative incentive. Grains easy and cotton steady. Bonds were firm, the dollar showed few changes of importance, with the franc continuing to rule near the lower gold point.

Miners On Strike
At Small Mines
In Mercer County

(International News Service)
GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 31.—
Miners of four small independent coal mines in this section walked out today.

The miners were reported to be demanding an increase of 10 cents a ton, although the local coal market is glutted with coal and more than the union scale and the NRA Code. The strike is said to have followed a visit here of representatives of the United Mine Workers of America.

Miners in the vicinity of Stonehouse and Jackson Center continued operating although it was expected union representatives would visit these sections this afternoon.

Market Winds Up Month Of October Still In Doldrums, Activity
Is Low

International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The stock market today wound up October displaying a firm tone but still in the doldrums as far as price movements and activity were concerned.

A better trend in the news was of little influence. The steel trade reviews told of a gain in operations and better prospects for the industry.

The week's power output hit the highest level in nearly 4 years. The A. & P. strike row was near a settlement.

The response to this speculatively was a hardening in prices but gains were small.

U. S. Steel common and preferred were higher, indicating the food earnings report for the quarter had been discontinued. Other steel shares were firm.

Utility stocks ignored the bullish power figures and remained in the same rut they have occupied for months.

Rail shares edged forward fractionally but speculative interest in the group was dampened by the traffic decline last week.

A few individual issues went ahead. Gillette hit a new 1934 high by a fraction. Crown Cork & Seal was higher. DuPont was up as much as a point at one time. On the other hand, Penick & Ford and Universal Leaf Tobacco, yesterday's features, quieted down.

Oil shares worked higher in response to the improvement in industry's situation in the last few days and the hope that the Demolished price situation would be stabilized before the week was out.

Johns Manville continued to set the pace for the building group, ruling around a point higher. A flurry of buying in the mail order and farm shares brought general gains, with Case Threshing up a point at one time.

Liquor shares edged forward but dealings were light. The merchandising division was steady. Food shares were neglected with National Biscuit heavy.

California shares improved further, Standard Oil of California reaching the best price on the move.

Outside markets provided no speculative incentive. Grains easy and cotton steady. Bonds were firm, the dollar showed few changes of importance, with the franc continuing to rule near the lower gold point.

Says Utilities Are Being Forced To Help Pay For Attacks On Them

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—Utilities through taxes are being forced to help pay for attempts to destroy them, Alexander Forward of New York, managing director of the American Gas Association charged today. At the same time he voiced a warning that "we have the strength and the resources to meet even attack from our own government."

"The Tennessee Valley authority and the electric farm and home authority have, under threat of direct government competition, forced reductions in electric rates," Forward told the association's 16th annual convention.

"They have by fear forced the manufacturers of electric appliances to reduce prices and bring out new models.

"They have sponsored deferred payment plans for the sale of appliances which it is difficult for any competition to meet.

H. O. Caster of New York, retiring president of the association, said, "When privately owned and operated utilities are destroyed, progress in the industry will cease."

Ferry S. Young of Newark, N. J., a vice president of the Public Service corporation, was elected president to succeed Caster. L. B. Downing of Dallas, Tex., president of the Lone Star Gas company, was elected vice president.

Shenango Children Give Musical Revue On Friday Evening

"Kiddies On Parade" Will Be Presented By Cast Of 200 Youngsters

Over 200 children are rehearsing daily for a musical revue, "Kiddies On Parade," which will be presented in the auditorium of Shenango township high school on Friday evening, November 2.

"Kiddies on Parade" depicts the story of the Old Lady in the Shoe and her host of children. After a long sleep they tell of their dreams which are interpreted by such characters as Red Riding Hood, the Tin Soldiers, Bo Peep, Boy Blue, the Ten Little Indians and others.

The second act, called the "Tots of Time," takes the audience from the Colonial ladies and gentlemen of 1776 to the dainty girls in hoop-skirts of 1865. From that scene it goes to 1903 where derby-wearing Beut Brummels are out on their bicycles with beflowered ladies. The next scene is 1918, with miniature soldiers and nurses of France, and the last scene of 1933, with breadlines and shanty-towns.

Huge Increase In U. S. Gold Stocks

Treasury Reveals $130,000,000 Increase Since Fiscal Year Start, July 1

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Gold stocks of the United States have increased $130,000,000 since the beginning of the fiscal year July 1 while the government's silver supply has been boosted $100,607,000, it was revealed at the treasury today.

Gains in the stocks of these metals, called into the treasury as the basis for currency, have resulted from the purchase of gold and silver in domestic and foreign markets.

In the case of gold there has been a gradual flow back from that held in hoards, amounting to around $30,000,000 under the treasury order of December 28, 1933. Secretary Morgenthau showed that imports for the week ending October 26 were $2,260,502, the bulk of which was received from Europe at New York. Purchase of scrap gold for the same period were $2,219,890 and of newly mined domestic gold $2,441,550.

The present treasury stock of gold is approximately $7,995,680,000 and of silver $614,114,000, about a half billion dollars of which is in standard silver dollars.

Says Utilities Are Being Forced To Help Pay For Attacks On Them

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—Utilities through taxes are being forced to help pay for attempts to destroy them, Alexander Forward of New York, managing director of the American Gas association charged today. At the same time he voiced a warning that "we have the strength and the resources to meet even attack from our own government."

"The Tennessee Valley authority and the electric farm and home authority have, under threat of direct government competition, forced reductions in electric rates," Forward told the association's 10th annual convention.

"They have by far forced the manufacturers of electric appliances to reduce prices and bring out new models.

"This propaganda is injuring the business of every gas company in this country."

H. O. Caster of New York, retiring president of the association, said, "When privately owned and operated utilities are destroyed, progress in the industry will cease."

Perry S. Young of Newark, N. J., a vice president of the Public Service corporation, was elected president to succeed Caster. L. B. Denning of Dallas, Tex., president of the Lone Star Gas company, was elected vice president.

Lions Club Devotes Itself To Business

Club, Community Matters Discussed On Tuesday; Music Features

Disposing of business matters of club and community concern, the Lions club, at its crowded October business session yesterday, received from its committee chairmen a word picture of past and future events and enjoyed, on the side, a short period of vocal music.

President Dr. A. J. Borland presided over the meeting.

One by one, the blind work committee announced that a Christmas party for the blind has been approved by the club board of directors, the publicity committee that a club bulletin is planned, the attendance committee that club attendance in October averaged 85.5 percent, the athletic committee that inter-club bowling contests have been started and others gave accounts of their service. Numerous announcements were made.

Two new Lions, Dr. T. J. Fletcher and Harding H. Thayer, were presented to the club.

Featuring was the musical program in which the Rev. D. L. Ferguson, of Highland church, a Lion, sang a solo, and a special quartet, made up of B. K. Thacker, E. D. Marvin, Numa F. Vidal and I. J. Miller, sang two numbers.

Market Winds Up Month Of October Still In Dol-

Is Low

International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The stock market today wound up October by playing a firm tone but still in the doldrums as far as price movements and activity were concerned.

A better trend in the news was of little influence. The steel trade reviews told of a gain in operations and better prospects for the industry. The week's power output hit the highest level in nearly 4 years. The A. & P. strike row was near a settlement.

The response to this speculatively was a hardening in prices but gains were small.

U. S. Steel common and preferred were higher, indicating the food earnings report for the quarter had been discontinued. Other steel shares were firm.

Utility stocks ignored the bullish power figures and remained in the same rut they have occupied for months.

Rail shares edged forward fractionally but speculative interest in the group was dampened by the traffic decline last week.

A few individual issues went ahead. Gillette hit a new 1934 high by a fraction. Crown Cork & Seal was higher. DuPont was up as much as a point at one time. On the other hand, Pack & Ford and Universal Leaf Tobacco, yesterday's features, quieted down.

Oil shares worked higher in response to the improvement in industry's situation in the last few days and the hope that the demoralized price situation would be stabilized before the week was out.

Johns Manville continued to set the pace for the building group, ruling around a point higher. A flurry of buying in the mail order and farm shares brought general gains, with Case Thrashing up a point at one time.

Liquor shares edged forward but dealings were light. The merchandising division was steady. Food shares were neglected with National Biscuit heavy.

California shares improved further. Standard Oil of California reaching the best price in the move.

Outside markets provided no speculative incentive. Grains easy and cotton steady. Bonds were firm, the dollar showed few changes of importance, with the franc continuing to rule near the lower gold point.

Miners On Strike
At Small Mines
In Mercer County

(International News Service)

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 31.—Miners of four small independent coal mines in this section walked out today.

The miners were reported to be demanding an increase of 10 cents a ton, although operators maintain their rate of 80 cents is five cents more than the union scale and the MRA Code. The strike is said to have followed a visit here of representatives of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mines in the vicinity of Stoneboro and Jackson Center continued operating although it was expected union representatives would visit these sections this afternoon.

Annual Hallowe'en Celebration To Take Place In Ellwood City This Evening

Bands To Lead Mammoth Parade; Many Prizes Will Be Awarded For Costumes

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—Extra caution will be exercised by the people of Ellwood City this evening and cause them to cast careful glances over their shoulder for this is the night when ghosts, goblins, and the witches of spiritland will roam the city without molestation.

Tonight at 7:15 Ellwood City will hold its annual Hallowe'en celebration and from all indications it will be one of the largest ever held. The local merchants have taken care of everything—music and prizes. Burgess Judd C. Turner, general chairman, and his various committees have taken care of all the details.

The parade will form on First avenue in the Fourth ward. Prizes will be awarded for various costumes for men, women and children. All those who wish to be considered for the prizes must be in the parade and in their respective groups. Members of the local Kiwanis club will act as judges.

The parade will move sharply at 7:15 headed by the Ellwood City High school band and the American Legion Bugle and Drum Corps. It will proceed across the Fifth street bridge, up Lawrence avenue to Eighth street and thence to the L. E. parking grounds, where additional judging will be made and the parade will disband.

The route of the parade will be closed to traffic from 7 p. m. and up until after the celebration. It will be a gala evening with hundreds of people from this city and surrounding vicinity participating. Costumes and disguises of all types will be in evidence. It will be an evening of noise, fun, and merry-making.

Wurtemburg W.C.T.U. To Present Program

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—With a pleasing hospitality, Mrs. Daniel Knox 800 club at her home on the Ellwood-Zellenople road last evening, Mrs. Jacob Boots and Miss Mary McDonald were special guests.

Two tables were in play, the prize awarded to Mrs. Jacob Boots. At the conclusion of the games the hosts served a dainty luncheon featuring Hallowe'en appointments.

On Tuesday evening, November 6, the group will be entertained again at the home of Mrs. Theo. TerLinden, Jr., of Knox.

CLASS PARTIES

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 31.—Thirty-five members of the Sunshine and Wide Awake classes of the Hickory Knoll Church of God were entertained in a merry manner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crand of Lillyville, for a masquerade party.

There were many varied costumes and the guessing who's who revealed many surprises. During the business meeting Harvey Clyde tendered his resignation as president, having moved to Ellwood.

An interesting program of games and contests passed the hours in a merry manner and at an appropriate time, a tempting luncheon was served by the hosts, assisted by Jean DIFrischia, Mrs. Jay McDonald, John Clyde and George Clarke.

Recky Lum, the Girl Scout cabin at Wurtemburg, was also the scene of merry activities when members of the Pathfinder class of the Wurtemburg Methodist church, taught by Carl Ketterer, assembled for a masquerade event with a majority of the members participating.

After the identity of each one had been revealed, the hours were spent in a jolly manner with fortune telling and other seasonal games. An added feature was the serving of tasty refreshments by Mrs. Carl Ketterer and Mrs. Ray Ketterer.

Says Utilities Are Being Forced To Help Pay For Attacks On Them

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—Utilities through taxes are being forced to help pay for attempts to destroy them, Alexander Forward of New York, managing director of the American Gas Association charged today. At the same time he voiced a warning that "we have the strength and the resources to meet even attack from our own government."

"The Tennessee Valley authority and the electric farm and home authority have, under threat of direct government competition, forced reductions in electric rates," Forward told the association's 15th annual convention.

"They have by fear forced the manufacturers of electric appliances to reduce prices and bring out new models.

"This propaganda is injuring the business of every gas company in this country."

H. O. Caster of New York, retiring president of the association, said, "When privately owned and operated utilities are destroyed, progress in the industry will cease."

Perry S. Young of Newark, N. J., a vice president of the Public Service corporation, was elected president to succeed Caster. L. B. Denning of Dallas, Tex., president of the Lone Star Gas company, was elected vice president.

Lions Club Devotes Itself To Business

Club, Community Matters Discussed On Tuesday; Music Features

Disposing of business matters of club and community concern, the Lions club, at its crowded October business session yesterday, received from its committee chairman a word picture of past and future events and enjoyed, on the side, a short period of vocal music.

President Dr. A. J. Borland presided over the meeting.

One by one, the blind work committee announced that a Christmas party for the blind has been approved by the club board of directors, the publicity committee that a club bulletin is planned, the attendance committee that club attendance in October averaged 88.5 percent, the athletic committee that inter-club bowling contests have been started and others gave accounts of their service. Numerous announcements were made.

Sixty-two blind persons attended "Green Pastures" free through the

kindness of its sponsors, the club was told.

Two new Lions, Dr. T. J. Fletcher and Harding H. Thayer, were presented to the club.

Featuring was the musical program in which the Rev. D. L. Ferguson, of Highland church, a Lion, sang a solo, and a special quartet, made up of B. K. Thacker, E. D. Marvin, Numa F. Vidal and I. J. Miller, sang two numbers.

Bible Recital At Highland Church

Dr. H. H. Halley Gives First Of Bible Recital-Lectures On Tuesday Evening

The drop of a pin could have been heard Tuesday evening in Highland United Presbyterian church all during the Bible recital-lecture given by Dr. Henry Hampton Halley.

The service marked the opening of two weeks' meetings, which will be held nightly except Saturday, in Highland church. The pastor, the Rev. D. L. Ferguson, presided; the service opening with a 15-minute song period, during which the Men's Bible class, under the direction of Richard Johns, sang a special number. The opening prayer was given by Dr. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the first United Presbyterian church.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. Ferguson and in a few words, told the purpose of his recitals, to give a clear, connected story of the Bible from Genesis to Revelations, showing how the entire book is one continued story. After his introductory remarks he launched into his recital, using the book of Genesis as the first of his series.

Dr. S. E. Copeland of the Third United Presbyterian church, pronounced the benediction.

This evening the service will begin at 7:45 with fifteen minutes of song and a special number by the Baldwin Bible class.

Shenango Children Give Musical Revue On Friday Evening

"Kiddies On Parade" Will Be Presented By Cast Of 200 Youngsters

Over 200 children are rehearsing daily for a musical revue, "Kiddies on Parade", which will be presented in the auditorium of Shenango township high school on Friday evening, November 2.

"Kiddies on Parade" depicts the story of the Old Lady in the Shoe and her host of children. After a long sleep they tell of their dreams which are interpreted by such characters as Red Riding Hood, the Tin Soldiers, Bo Peep, Boy Blue, the Ten Little Indians and others.

The second act, called the "Tots of Time", takes the audience from the Colonial ladies and gentlemen of 1776 to the dainty girls in hoop-skirts of 1805. From that scene it goes to 1893 where derby-wearing Beau Brummels are out on their bicycles with beflowered ladies. The next scene is 1918, with miniature soldiers and nurses of France, and the last scene of 1933, with breadlines and shanty-towns.

Huge Increase In U. S. Gold Stocks

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Gold stocks of the United States have increased $130,000,000 since the beginning of the fiscal year July 1 while the government's silver supply has been boosted $108,000,000, it was revealed at the treasury today.

Gains in the stocks of these

In the case of gold there has been a gradual flow back from that held in hoards, amounting to around $30,000,000 under the treasury order of December 28, 1933. Secretary Morgenthau showed that imports for the week ending October 26 were $2,269,502, the bulk of which was received from Europe at New York. Purchase of scrap gold for the same period were $2,219,880 and of newly mined domestic gold $2,441,550.

The present treasury stock of gold is approximately $7,985,600,000 and of silver $614,114,000, about a half billion dollars of which is in standard silver dollars.

A game similar a checkers was played by the Egyptians as early as 1600 B. C., and a form of it was popular in ancient Greece.
